

Hearing scheduled for electric rate petitions

In recent weeks there have been three petitions filed against the Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD) with the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities (DPU). One of these was filed on April 23 by the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce. The other two were filed by the Town of Wilmington, one on April 23 and the other last Friday.

The DPU will conduct a public hearing at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, June 11 in the Leverett Saltonstall Building, 100 Cambridge Street, Boston. The hearing is to be in Room 1210. It will be a joint hearing, of the petitions of the town, and of the Chamber.

The Chamber and the Town of Wilmington have asked for an investigation into the RMLD practices on electric rates and practices. The town's second petition asks that the impending rate increase, of June 1, be frozen and that there be no increase until Wilmington officials and RMLD officials meet for negotiations.

In addition to asking for an investigation, and to a freeze on electric rates, the Town of Wilmington is asking that RMLD pay the legal expenses, for its part in the controversy, from the profits the RMLD makes from the sale of power and electricity. Wilmington officials say that Wilmington rate payers would be paying the expenses of both sides were the RMLD to pay the costs from its budget.

Town Counsel Alan Altman adds that Wilmington customers should not have to pay for the legal costs incurred by the RMLD while the RMLD "is in default of its obligations required by Section 3 of Chapter 369 of the Acts of 1908."

"If they (RMLD) want to play games, let them pay for it" was his comment.

RMLD Chairman John H. Crocker, has stated that the Wilmington petition is based on "misinterpretation" of the state statutes, governing the regulating of RMLD. There was, a week ago, a sharp exchange between Town Counsel Alan Altman and RMLD counsel in the Wilmington Town Hall, on some interpretations of the 1908 law.

The latest petition filed by the Town of Wilmington requests that the DPU immediately order the RMLD, acting by its three commissioners, to forthwith meet with the town manager and selectmen of Wilmington for the purpose of complying with Chapter 369 of the Acts of 1908, section 3, being a meeting for the purpose of agreeing on prices and terms for the RMLD supplying electricity to the Town of Wilmington and its inhabitants.

The meeting in Wilmington Town Hall last week, seems to be the first in which any light commissioner of Reading participated, with reference to power and light being sold to Wilmington. Wilmington officials termed it a "hearing" and the RMLD officials an "informal" meeting.

Nor has there ever been any meeting with officials of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce. Officials of the Chamber and two selectmen did visit the RMLD commissioners in August 1983, in an effort to have a conversation about the difficulties. There was no response, other than they were told to discuss any problems with the general manager.

After that attempt in 1983, the Chamber of Commerce wrote a letter to the RMLD, requesting a meeting. According to Chamber officials there has never been any response to that letter.

Walsh named town accountant

Edward Walsh of Littleton was approved by the board of selectmen as Wilmington's new town accountant Tuesday night.

According to Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski, Walsh had the best credentials and the most experience of the three candidates interviewed.

Walsh has had 30 years experience in municipal accounting and was one of the first group to pass a new exam to become a Certified Mass. Governmental Accountant.

Though "we certainly have some big shoes to fill," said Selectman Jim Stewart, referring to departing town accountant Dorothy Peters, we do have a qualified person and must be willing to pay a good salary.

Walsh will begin his duties July 1 at a salary of $30,900 a year.

Said Stapczynski, Walsh "really strengthens our financial staff."

DAV seeks new home

by Arlene Surprenant
Fred Shine, head of the Disabled American Veterans (DAV), sought storage space from the board of selectmen Tuesday for his organization's equipment and historical materials until they can locate a new home. Because of cost factors, the DAV was forced to vacate its building on Main Street in the center of town.

Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski agreed to meet with Shine the next day to discuss some possible space options.

Shine also sought advice on Um-pah!

Tuba player Eric Peters and the Wilmington High School Marching Band played "America the Beautiful" in the Veterans' Lot in Wildwood Cemetery on Monday during the town's Memorial Day exercises.

Neighbors rescue woman from smoky fire

Two women from Veranda Avenue, Wilmington are credited with saving the life of an elderly neighbor who was trapped in a smoky fire on Tuesday morning.

Denise DeLucia and Nan Burke saw smoke coming from the home of Florence Laffin about 8:20 a.m. As they approached the house, they could hear Mrs. Laffin calling for help.

Finding the door locked, they broke a window with a rock. They then entered the smoke-filled house and made their way to the kitchen, where they found Mrs. Laffin. They then carried her to safety.

Mrs. Laffin's son John awoke about 5 a.m. to find a fire in his bed, resulting from an electric blanket. He extinguished the fire with his hands and took the mattress outside. He then drove himself to Choate Memorial Hospital in Woburn where he was treated for second degree burns on his hands and legs.

Apparently, though, a spark remained with some of the bedding which remained in the house. This gradually rekindled, resulting in a smoky fire some three hours later.

Walker School to be demolished

Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski announced Tuesday he is putting out bids to demolish the old Walker School this summer.

The building re-use committee has recommended this course of action, he stated, as the school is beyond repair.

The building, which dates back to 1896 and holds many fond memories for many Wilmington residents, has elicited recent comments from various residents, both pro and con, said Stapczynski.

On an as yet undesignated Saturday, a yard sale will be held to get rid of desks, supplies and furniture stored in the building, he said.

On behalf of the Wilmington Democratic Town Committee, let me extend sincere condolences to the family and friends of Timothy J. Kane. Tim was an honorable gentleman and made those around him even better people. May he rest in peace.

by Elaine DePasquale
For nearly two decades he's been as close as the telephone. Sprained ankles, broken limbs, pregnancy, adolescent acne, feverish children, heart disease, old age, terminal illness. Dr. Ralph Lepore has treated them all.

This Saturday night, however, at a testimonial dinner in his honor, Wilmington will say farewell to its most beloved physician. Late next month, Dr. Lepore and his family will move to Greensboro, North Carolina, where Dr. Lepore hopes to open "a small family practice."

He has had a license to practice in that state since 1979. A native son who graduated from Wilmington High School in 1952, Dr. Lepore returned to his home town to practice medicine after earning his M.D. at New York City Medical School.

One of the vanishing breed of general practitioners, Dr. Lepore took over the practice and offices of another G.P., the late Ernest MacDougall, M.D. Soon his thriving practice outgrew the Middlesex Avenue office that was once Dr. MacDougall's home and he moved a few doors down the street into a spacious office in a house now owned by him and his two brothers Peter and Raymond. In that office, now bare of the medical books which once lined the walls, over a desk littered with papers, notes and laboratory results, Dr. Lepore shared his insights this week.

"When I first started, I couldn't see people fast enough," he said. "I was here every morning, Tuesday through Saturday, and every night until 10 or 11."

How big is his practice? He isn't exactly sure.

"I stopped counting after six months," he says.

With more and more doctors setting up practices in town now, it's easing up a little, Dr. Lepore said. Still, he said, his wife is happy that they are going to move and take life a little easier.

"She thinks if I slow down, I'll live longer," he said. "Why should I wait until I'm 65?"

While Greensboro is a city of about 100,000, Dr. Lepore said, there are plenty of open spaces.

"It's very rural. The pace is slower and it is more family oriented," he said, comparing Greensboro to Wilmington "the way it used to be" before industry began moving in.

His four children: Larry, 15, Christopher, 13, Kathleen, 10, and Colleen, 7, all feel very positive about the move, he said.

The family has purchased a home in Greensboro. It's "on the eighteenth fairway," Dr. Lepore says, and may give him a chance to enjoy a sport he hasn't pursued since his days in the army.

Dr. Lepore will be missed by

his many patients, however, some who come from as far away as New Hampshire and Cape Cod.

"I see people every day who say they're mad at me for leaving," he said. But the same people are also happy for him, he added.

Joanne Ethier, R.N. has worked for Dr. Lepore since he first opened his practice. Recently, he delivered her first grandchild, she said.

"There'll never be another Ralph. I'll miss him a lot," Ethier said.

John Sullivan, M.D., whose general practice is now based at the Regional Health Center, will take over Dr. Lepore's offices and practice this summer.

"He was looking to go out on his own at the same time I was looking to move down South," said Dr. Lepore.

At Wilmington High School, Dr. Lepore, then just plain Ralph, was president of the senior class and the student council. To see the number of superlatives he rated from classmates, you knew he'd be going on to something special.

Ralph was voted: most popular, sharpest, most versatile, best organizer, best disposition, best leader, best sport, most reliable, most dependable, class optimist, busiest senior and class cupid.

Even at that early age, he already possessed his characteristic sense of humor. In his yearbook, he listed his hobby as "breathing: I do it all the time" and said his ambition was to "go to college and invent a donut with the hole on the outside."

After graduating from Boston College in 1956, Dr. Lepore completed a stint in the army where he worked in the biological warfare laboratories, testing things like anthrax and botulism.

"They had to test these things, to be able to create an antidote," he explained.

After the army, he went on to medical school and completed his internship and residency requirements before setting up practice in Wilmington.

"The town has changed," he says of Wilmington, "but I'll miss the people. I love people. I've seen teenagers grow up. I know their parents and their grandparents. Anywhere I go I am recognized."

Dr. Lepore has lived with his family in Reading for the past 14 years and now, he says, it is time for a change.

"You have to weigh everything out... weather, taxes. A way of life is intangible. I figured I would give it a try," he said.

Medicine, too, is changing, he said. "Now there is a big rush toward cutting expenses. There are HMOs. There is more and more paperwork," he said.

Now he is making more referrals to specialists. For one thing, he says, it makes more sense malpractice-wise.

According to Dr. Lepore, one in every four or five physicians is named in a malpractice suit these days. Advertisements in Sunday newspapers, he said, encourage you to sue your doctor. He, himself, has never been sued "yet," he says.

Aside from his flourishing practice, Dr. Lepore has affiliations with both Choate-Symmes and Winchester hospitals and cares for patients at several local nursing homes.

At quarter to six, Tuesday evening, he had seen his last office patient. Instead of heading for home and an evening of relaxation, he was on his way to Blair House, a Tewksbury nursing home to visit an elderly resident.

"I keep rumbling on," said the weary looking doctor with a smile.

"I put in long days, but if you enjoy what you are doing, you have a tremendous capacity," he said.

point of view

The time is now

As new chairman Tony Accardi struggled valiantly to maintain order and a measure of control with an outspoken audience, Wednesday night's meeting of the Wilmington School Committee reached new heights — the height of the ridiculous.

The meeting began with a request to tape future proceedings for public release. Something tells me had they recorded events last Wednesday, no one would believe what went on.

With so many important decisions to be made in such a short time, it's hard to condone the confusion that reigned.

Motions had to be repeated for clarity. One had to listen closely as talk moved from one topic to another, often without any logical connection. Some uncertainty over legal matters and certain precedents prevailed. Rude interruptions were the order of the night. Tempers flared, shouting erupted, laughter relieved tensions, and nothing much was accomplished — all in the name of education.

In fact, the best presentation of the night, a slide show on the school library curriculum, was missed by many audience members who decided to take a break instead.

Yes, committee-members did take up several agenda and non-agenda items of utmost importance. They argued over how to proceed in the superintendent search. They agreed to mull over further budget cuts. They touched on (or tiptoed around, depending on your view) filling a school psychologist position, firming up next year's school calendar, and releasing the now infamous minutes of a previous meeting.

But what, in the long run, was decided? Many of the important matters and final decisions will wait for yet another day.

Now certainly, Mr. Accardi is entitled to a few more meetings to get the all-important job of chairman down pat. Certainly, school board members are only human and should feel free to express their opinions. Obviously, members of the community should be accorded the same privilege.

And, make no mistake, I have always had the utmost respect for our elected school officials. I have praised their devotion and selflessness in giving so freely of themselves for Wilmington's educational advancement. I have trusted their judgement and applauded many of their decisions, as have other members of the community, I'm sure.

Now is the time to repay that confidence.

Please, with time of the essence, let's not get bogged down in shouting matches, petty differences, or non-essentials. Let's not lose sight of the business at hand. Set aside a portion of the agenda for audience participation and comments, in the interest of fairness. Then move to resolve those issues so desperately needing your attention NOW.

School committee reveals vote for superintendent finalists

by Arlene Surprenant
Confusion was the order of the night as school committee members reversed their former procedures in the superintendent search last Wednesday.

On advice from their attorney, they also made public the minutes of the May 15 meeting, revealing how members voted for each of the five finalists.

Instead of making on-site visits to each of the four remaining candidates first, members voted three to two to conduct public interviews before making the visits. It was felt this approach, suggested by Mitchell Spiris, might narrow down the choices and save on travel costs. The public interviews would most likely be held in back to back meetings the week of June 3.

Discussion came at a fast clip as members discussed the pros and cons of the visitations and cost to the taxpayers. Phil Fenton made motions to either visit all candidates or none of them, in the interest of fairness. In the end, they decided to visit all candidates.

Former School Committee member James Demos was angry. He pointed out the superintendent was "the most important position" in the educational system and if they had to spend a "few bucks" to make visitations and hire the best person, they should.

Bridget Zukas said on-site visits was the "greatest thing you can do" and, it was obvious to her in making such visits in the past, that you can't fool a visiting team for a whole day.

"The distance of one candidate, David DeRuzzo of Louisiana, might have made visiting all candidates difficult.

According to Chairman Tony Accardi in an interview May 26, the whole discussion is now academic, however, as DeRuzzo is no longer eligible for the superintendent post. He has signed a contract, effective July 1, to work in a Mississippi school system, Accardi said. This leaves William Fay, Robert Horan, Barbara Hunt, Timothy Gormley currently in the running.

After consulting with several attorneys, Accardi said, he decided to release the May 15 minutes because "it appears to be a violation" of the Open Meeting Law not do so. At the meeting in question, committee members discussed and voted on finalists by number rather than use their names.

Demos also spoke out in favor of releasing the minutes. As one of the 12 semi-finalists, he said, he had signed a statement saying committee members could discuss him in public. Therefore, it was up to members, who were elected to represent the community in "all honesty" to release the minutes showing how they voted, Demos said.

Zukas explained they voted by number out of "compassion" to protect candidates from potential embarrassment.

According to the minutes, William Fay, principal of the West Intermediate School, received the only unanimous vote of the board. Robert Horan, assistant superintendent in Wilmington and Timothy Gormley of Maine each received four favorable votes with Fenton the only dissenting vote.

Barbara Hunt of Belmont, Ma. was favored by Accardi, Bob Peterson, and Shirley Callan. And David DeRuzzo of Louisiana received votes from Peterson, Fenton and Callan.

Demos, the third local candidate, did not make the list of finalists. He received no support from school board members.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

I am writing in support of Wilmington's local unit of Disabled American Veterans. Last week I noticed in the Town Crier, an editorial about the fate of the Walker School. The school would be torn down by summer's end, according to the editorial, because the town could not find anyone who wanted to rent or lease it.

Directly below this editorial, was a letter from the Commander of the Disabled American Veterans, saying that the organization would have no meeting place, as a building to rent or lease from the town was unavailable. I am not a member of the D.A.V., but I am an interested citizen of Wilmington who just cannot fathom what is going on in regard to this matter.

I contacted the D.A.V. and was told that they had indeed tried to rent the Walker School, but for reasons that are obscure (to me at least) were turned down. If it is political machinations that are causing the problems here, then the town can only be said to be mean-spirited toward an organization that we all should hold in the highest of esteem. Members of the D.A.V. fought for, and have been wounded or maimed for my right to write this letter, your right to print it, and everyone else's right to read it.

Clearly, the town should rethink its priorities, and lend all aid to opening any available avenues for saving the D.A.V. of Wilmington. They deserve nothing less.

Sincerely,
Peter G. Anderson

Dear Larz:

It would seem that the writer last week who suggested that the Walker School be used had the answer to two problems — the DAV's home and the condition of the school. Why doesn't the DAV lease the Walker School from the town? Or it could exchange the land down by the lake, if the DAV still owns it, for the school. This area by the lake could then be used for additional parking area or playground, to go with the lake recreation facilities.

Although the school is located in the corner of a residential neighborhood, it stands next door to the police station and a short distance from the post office, the fire station and the Masonic Lodge, with nothing in between. It could be guided by the same rulings as the Legion Hall and the Knights of Columbus Hall, which also sit in a residential neighborhood.

Many citizens of the town are heart broken by the present condition of the Walker School. I am certain, if entrusted to the care of members of the DAV, that it would again be a historical asset to the town in no time.

Thanks to the re-claimed citizen for the good thinking. He'll be an addition to Willie!

Sincerely,
Nancy H. Clark

Pageantry, pride and patriotism

It was a sight to behold!!

The units marching with shoulders squared and heads held high. The drums beating a steady cadence as the bands played on. Banners flying, flags unfurled, batons twirling, high stepping horses, shiny fire engines, uniforms filling the morning with a splash of color.

A burst of patriotism, a friendly wave, toddlers clutching balloons and flags, camaraderie, and special appearances by Mickey Mouse, Superman, the Smurfs, and other cartoon favorites. Most of all, a tear of two for those who made the ultimate sacrifice.

It was Wilmington's tribute to its war veterans and unsung heroes who've long since passed away. The living did them proud.

Tewksbury seeks ice rink

Tewksbury Selectman Paul Sullivan got unanimous support from board members to seek information from state officials about the possibility of adding an ice rink to the town or expanding the Janis Ice Rink in Lowell. Sullivan said the closing of the Wilmington and Billerica ice rinks has placed ice time in the area at a premium and has caused the Tewksbury Youth Hockey program to accept whatever ice time they can get.

He proposed either seeking state assistance in building a public rink on state land in Tewksbury or expanding the Janis Ice Rink in Lowell to provide more ice time to area residents and hockey organizations. With few ice rinks still operating in the area, Sullivan said the Tewksbury Youth Hockey organization has found it difficult getting ice time and often has to take ice time at rather odd hours.

Noting that Tewksbury had at one time been considered as the site for a hockey rink until the state decided to build the Janis Rink in Lowell, Sullivan suggested the board contact state officials and ask whether a rink could be built in the town or whether the state would consider adding onto the Janis Rink. Sullivan claimed the Janis Rink has sufficient land to allow expansion.

25 years ago

The May issue of the Town Crier noted that:

The gross cost for Wilmington's Urban Renewal Plan was estimated to be $1,246,010.

Cardinal Cushing was scheduled to dedicate St. Dorothy's new church on June 4. Route 93 was opened for about 15 miles, (Route 128 to Methuen) five of which were in Wilmington.

Construction began on Kingdom Hall with about 50 local Witnesses taking part.

There was no opposition to the appeal of John Switzer of New York who wanted to raise African Violets in a commercial greenhouse, on the property of Dr. Kenneth Iverson of Chestnut Street, which he planned to buy. Action was delayed by the board of appeals.

Girl Scout Troop 108 was planning a trip to Washington DC. Two members, Jean Reahume and Ellen Latta were working as nurses aides at Choate Hospital.

Pineridge Cleaners was advertising free storage boxes for winter garments.

A polio clinic was scheduled to be held by the Board of Health on June 5 with a fee of $1.00.

The Dragon Cement terminal opened on Eames Street with Norman Twombly of Marjorie Road as plant foreman.

Fifty hymn books were donated to the Forest Street Congregational Church (now St. Elizabeth's Chapel) in memory of Eva Mann by her neighbors.

About 65 people attended the 20th reunion of the Class of 1945, WHS. Classmates George White, Neil Joyce, Richard Woods and William Britt were recognized for remaining bachelors; Marie Baldwin O'Connell was honored for having the greatest number of children (eight)

School officials suggest cuts, salaries remain intact

by Arlene Surprenant
In an effort to delete another $14,800 from the school budget, without affecting salaried accounts, central administration officials suggested further cuts in materials and supplies at a meeting of the school committee last week. They also heard from Special Education Director Cleo Fredette who said he would soon be posting the full time equivalency position of special needs psychologist.

The school department must pare down its defeated budget of $9.8 million to the $9.5 million voted on at town meeting in April.

Robert Horan, assistant superintendent, told committee members $5,851 will come from audio-visual supplies, which is a miscellaneous account, and $8,920 will come from two accounts covering principal and department head materials and supplies.

Though the audio-visual supplies represents a 75 percent cut and the other a 50 percent reduction, Horan said it might be possible to purchase some of the necessary supplies with extra funds from this year's budget.

Some lively discussion ensued. Shirley Callan questioned if administrators were being "fiscally responsible" in severely cutting into the textbook account, at the same time retaining two principals at the Shawsheen Elementary School. She also asked what their responsibility was in cutting the position of school psychologist but keeping the funds for that position still in the budget.

Fredette said he still needs the full time equivalency of a three and two fifths psychologist for special needs children. He will be posting the position once again, either as a contracted service or as an employee position. He agreed to draw up specifications for the post by the middle of June. If former psychologist Dr. Harriet Allen would like to reapply for the job, he said, she must agree to his guidelines.

A group of parents in favor of restoring Dr. Allen to her post spoke out in Dr. Allen's defense. Callan took exception to Fredette's claim that the former psychologist did not always provide direct services.

Bob Peterson defended the action of the school committee in deleting the position in February. He pointed out he "felt sorry" for the parent delegation as they only had "half truths" about the real issue.

Mitchell Spirits made a plea to reconsider a previous decision to drop a plan to house the eighth grade students at their respective schools next year. The option had been deleted because of excessive costs. Instead, it was suggested students attend classes at the high school, Swain School and various satellite campuses.

If officials keep to their present plan, said Spirits, "your staff is going to have more headaches than they ever thought possible."

No one moved to reconsider the decision.

Shriners to host entertainment extravaganza

The Aleppo Shriners will participate in a spectacular entertainment show this Thursday evening, May 30, at 7:30 in the Wilmington auditorium off Route 93, exit 13. The event is open to the public and is free of charge.

Featured will be America's popular Shriner groups that include the arabesque musicians in flowing silks. Known as the Oriental Band of Aleppo, this band is a championship group which has pleased presidents and potentates from coast to coast.

Music is the soul of a Shriners parade and this year's 60-piece band brings back the exuberance and memories of the Sousa-inspired bands of the 1880's. Added attractions are the colorful Shriners Scottish bagpipe band and fife and drum corps of the early American "Minuteman Unit."

Cars and Shriners go together like apple pie and ice cream, and the indoor action exhibitions have the crack motorcycle team performing intricate patterns to the amazement of the audience.

The 1906 antique Oldsmobile replicas and their drivers perform in parade, the same way that awarded them the championship trophy in the 1984 Boston Shriners convention.

Children and clowns make a great combination and what better place to have it happen than at the Shriners. Here these cavorting comics tickle the fancy of everyone - young and old - and offer them a free ride on their colorful choo-choo train.

The Shriners love to entertain. The Aleppo group has much to offer with action every minute. The Arab Patrol will celebrate its 100th birthday, a male chorus will sing, palomino horses will prance, and Shriners in tuxedos will parade.

This one and a half hour long 500 man show is the Shriners tribute to the public as they prepare to leave to attend the International Shriners convention in Atlanta, Georgia on July 1-6.

Last year's mammoth Shriners convention parade in Boston that drew over two million people has been proclaimed by veteran observers as the greatest audience turnout in the history of the Shriners in North America.

Ample free parking supervised by Shriner security officers and shuttle buses will be provided.

"This is a public event open to all non-Shriners. You don't have to be a Shriner to attend, and no tickets are required. The show and parking are free," explained Potentate Paul Miller, the leader of the Aleppo Shriners, who are known for the quality medical care provided in the 22 Shriners Hospitals for Crippled and Burned Children.

Strawberry Festival at Harnden Tavern

The Friends of Harnden Tavern will sponsor a Strawberry Festival Sunday, June 9 at the Tavern.

The aroma of plump, juicy strawberries will fill the air around the Harnden Tavern from 2 to 4 p.m. Covered with freshly made whipped cream, nothing compares with this tasty dessert on a warm spring afternoon. The atmosphere of an authentic Colonial American building will add to the festivities.

The Friends of Harnden Tavern and The Wilmington Historical Commission invite history and strawberry lovers to partake of their Strawberry Festival.

Tours through the newly redecorated interior of the Tavern will be hosted by Foster Balser, noted local historian. The Tavern is located on Route 62 (Salem Street) at Woburn Street near the health center.

Tewksbury closing fire station

Acting Tewksbury Fire Chief James Morris informed selectmen Tuesday that the fire sub-station on North Street will be closing on June 3. Acting Chief Morris cited fiscal constraints as the reason for the closing, but did not indicate when the station will reopen.

The fiscal 1985 fire department salary budget had been cut back at the 1984 annual town meeting forcing the acting chief to close the sub-station for several months at the start of the fiscal year because he did not have enough in his overtime account to cover the cost of filling in for firefighters out sick, injured or on vacation.

Without sufficient overtime funding, the acting chief has said, he can not keep a full compliment of men on duty at all times. For safety reasons, the firefighters union has stipulated in a contract with the town that at least three men must man each of the town's three fire engine companies. If one or more men are out sick, on vacation or injured and the chief has no money to provide overtime pay for someone to cover the shift, then a station must be closed. The remaining men on those shifts are brought to another fire station.

Accident takes life of Michael Rice

A Maine camping trip became a tragic event last week when a former Wilmington youth died after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage following an apparent scuffle with his companions.

Michael S. Rice, 18, who until recently lived on Hanover Street, Wilmington, was stricken Saturday in Fryeburg, Maine.

The youth had gone on a camping and canoeing trip with eight companions and collapsed evidently following an altercation with one or more of them.

An autopsy initiated by the state's attorney general's office showed Rice died of a ruptured vertebral artery.

No charges are expected to be filed against any of Rice's companions and the attorney general's office has termed the tragedy unintentional.

Rice was the son of Elwin and Sandra (Cook) Rice of 14 Hanover Street. At the time of his death, he was living in Woburn where he had moved shortly after dropping out of Wilmington High School this spring.

He had been working as a piano finisher for Falcone Piano Company in Woburn.

A well known and popular youth, he had done volunteer work at the New England Rehabilitation Hospital in Woburn.

Besides his parents, he is survived by his brother Charles, two sisters, Kristin and Heidi and his paternal grandparents Irving and Elizabeth Rice, all of Wilmington.

Rice was buried in Wildwood Cemetery Tuesday morning following services at the Wilmington Methodist Church. Arrangements were under the direction of Nichols Funeral Home.

Traffic cop on Main Street

Tewksbury Selectman Bill Hallisey gained unanimous support of the board Tuesday in an effort to place a traffic officer at the corner of Main and Shawshen Streets during heavy traffic periods. Hallisey told fellow board members that the traffic flowing through the intersection has increased beyond what can be effectively regulated by a traffic light and has suggested a traffic officer be placed there to facilitate the free flow of traffic.

Hallisey, saying it is time for the selectmen to take an active role in helping to solve the growing traffic congestion on Main Street, proposed approaching area businessmen about providing funding for the traffic officer at the intersection.

No vacation for Tewksbury selectmen

Tewksbury selectmen will not get a summer vacation this year as the board voted on May 21 to retain their once a week meeting schedule. The vote to turn down a meeting schedule of the second and fourth Tuesdays during June, July and August was 3-2 against with Selectmen Brian Sheehan and Charlie Coldwell voting in favor and Selectmen Tom Girard, Paul Sullivan and Bill Hallisey voting against.

Sullivan said he was comfortable with a weekly meeting schedule and added that meeting once every two weeks would create lengthy agendas. He also said that board members have to show up once a week to the sign the weekly town warrants, which include payrolls, anyway and that meeting once every two weeks would take up the same amount of overall time as weekly meetings would.

Coldwell, however, said the chairman could call special meetings between regular sessions if pressing matters arise or the agenda gets too lengthy.

But the majority of the board didn't want a vacation.

Michelle Cormier graduates from Barbizon

Michelle Cormier, of Park Street, Wilmington has graduated from Barbizon School of Modeling. She has been interested in modeling and pageants, since she was eight years old and holds several titles and trophies. Most recently, she won the Miss Petite America Pageant.

Michelle has been dancing for 13 years and currently is a student at the Lorraine Spada School of Dance.

A Wilmington landmark will close this weekend.

Tattersall's store, at the corner of Grove Avenue and Main Street has a sign on the front door saying that it will close on Sunday, June 2. Silver Lake, one can say, will never be the same.

Tattersall's Store, better known as Tat's, was started in the summer of 1923 by William Tattersall, a disabled veteran of World War I and his wife Lil. It was a variety store, selling newspapers, magazines, ice cream, bread and candy and other wares.

The Silver Lake railroad station, at the end of Wild Avenue was a busy place in those days, and people on their way to work in Boston would stop into Tattersall's for a copy of the Boston Post. The Post was the paper to read, if you lived in the Silver Lake area, and of course the reading would be on the train, as it went toward Boston. The fastest train, the 8:11, made the trip in 20 or 21 minutes.

Bill was a fairly tall man, who made a good living from selling newspapers. Sunday he would have newsboys at all the nearby churches. When a newsboy finished at any church Bill would be there, in his Model T Ford (with no cover) filled with papers to be sold at the next church.

The store would be closed for the winter, sometime about December first, and then reopen in early March. Bill and Lil went to Florida.

Sylvia Neilson, a Glen Road girl who later became a teacher in Wilmington High School, operated the newspaper business in the winter from her father's garage. She must have been a busy girl, between that and going to college. She was in charge for several years.

Name any family who dwelt in the area of Silver Lake during the days before World War II, and somebody in that family was selling papers for Bill Tattersall. One can include in this list Paul J. Lynch, who later became chief of police, and his brother George.

About the time that World War II started the Boston newspapers began to be their own agents. Newsboys around Silver Lake, as a consequence, were fewer in number.

Bill Tattersall was getting along in years, as World War II ended, and he turned the store over to his sister-in-law Margaret Hourihan. Margaret was a sister to Elizabeth Tattersall, a lady who had a lot of respect in that neighborhood, and a brother to Al Riley, who was operating a gasoline station.

Margaret Hourihan has owned the store now for 40 years. She, too, is not well. Her son-in-law, "Johnno" Gorman and his wife Peggy are in charge of the day-to-day operation, but Johnno has a full time job elsewhere.

Leo Hourihan, a son who lives on Lake Street, has also been busy at the store but he, too, has a full time job which requires his attention. And Lil, one of the original owners, is a patient in a hospital.

"Things are not like they used to be," says Johnno. He is right. The family does not want to sell the store. They just feel they should close it.

Girl Scouts to paint trash barrels on Common

On May 31, more than 100 Girl Scouts will paint trash barrels on Wilmington Common. Girls from 19 troops including one troop from Tewksbury, will be participating.

The trash barrels are going to be painted green with white and yellow daisies on them. The girls' names will be written on the petals of each flower. The daisy pattern was chosen because it represents scouting. The founder of Girl Scouting was nicknamed Daisy.

The scouts range in age from five to 15. The newest age level, Daisy Scouts, will get the chance to paint along with Brownie, Junior and Cadette Troops. Each of the girls will receive special recognition by the state. Governor Dukakis' office will be issuing each of them a citation for beautifying the town of Wilmington.

All the paint being used and some of the brushes were donated by paint stores in the local area.

WILMINGTON AUTO RENTAL

SUMMER'S COMING!

And with it come Vacations, the young people home from college, Aunt Minnie and Uncle Fred flying in from Atlanta — the list is endless! There will certainly be an increased demand on our fleet of air conditioned cars in the months to come! To meet this demand, we have expanded our fleet considerably, but we still recommend that you call early to reserve one of our small, large or mid sized cars

Although we accept Visa, Master Card, and American Express cards, a credit card is by no means a requirement. Neither are you required to fill the gas tank when your rental is finished, or pay a mileage charge.

Getting a reservation or a free quote for an extended time period is as easy as picking up your telephone or walking in — feel free to call or see us.

Correction

In a story in last week's Town Crier, it was reported that several persons had settled out of court in a suit against Berkshire Builders.

The story gave the impression that everyone involved were members of the Concerned Citizens of Wilmington. Duncan and Margaret McNeill were never members of that group.

AMENDED INVITATION TO BID

The Invitation to Bid for the following project:

Wilmington High School Additions and Renovations

Wilmington, Massachusetts is amended by adding Fire Protection to the list of Filed sub-bidders required for this project.

All other provisions remain the same.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR PROPOSALS

Town of Wilmington, Massachusetts. Sealed bids for REHABILITATION OF EAMES STREET SEWER AND APPURTENANT WORK, for the Town of Wilmington, Massachusetts, acting by its Town Manager, will be received at the office of the Town Manager, Town Hall, Glen Road, Wilmington, Massachusetts, until 4:00 o'clock P.M., prevailing time, on June 6, 1985. All bids received up to this time shall be publicly opened and read aloud on June 6, 1985, 7:00 P.M. at the Board of Water and Sewer Commissioners meeting at the Butters Row Water Treatment Facility.

The proposed work includes removal and replacement of about 100 linear feet of existing 10-inch sewer from within a railroad crossing sleeve, point repair of an existing 8-inch sewer, and all appurtenant work.

The Contract Documents, including Specifications and Drawing, may be examined at the office of the Town Clerk, Town Hall, Wilmington, Massachusetts, and at the office of the Fay, Spofford and Thorndike, Inc., 191 Spring Street, Lexington, Massachusetts 02173, on and after May 23, 1985, every weekday except Saturday between the hours of nine o'clock A.M. and four o'clock P.M., and copies thereof may be obtained at the office of Fay, Spofford and Thorndike, Inc. upon payment of $30.00 for each set, for which a refund will be made if returned to the Engineer in good condition within twenty one days after the opening of bids. Payment for Drawings and Specifications shall be by check made out to Fay, Spofford and Thorndike, Inc. If a Bidder requests Drawings and Specifications to be mailed out to him, an additional check in the amount of $10.00 made out to Fay, Spofford and Thorndike, Inc. shall be included. This is to cover the cost of mailing and handling and will not be refunded.

Each Bid must be accompanied by bid security in the form of certified check, cashier's check, treasurer's check, bid bond or cash in the amount of $3,000.00.

No bid may be withdrawn within thirty (30) days (Saturdays, Sundays and legal holidays excluded), after the date of opening thereof.

A Performance Bond and Labor and Material Payment Bond, each in an amount equal to 100 percent of the Contract price will be required. The right is reserved to waive any informalities in or to reject any or all bids received and to award the Contract to any of the contractors bidding on the work if, in the Town's opinion, the best interests of the Town thereby will be promoted.

End-of-the-year festivities at the Wildwood School

The Wildwood School calendar is packed with end of the year activities.

Tonight, grades three through six will take part in a science fair in the school auditorium from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Three winning projects from each class will be chosen by a panel of teachers. Winners will receive trophies and every participant will take home a certificate.

A PAC sponsored family pizza party will be on the agenda May 31 from 6 to 9 p.m. Besides some mouth watering pizza, live entertainment will feature Michael Jackson and Bruce Springsteen look-alikes.

Sixth graders will be treated to a special dinner at the Sons of Italy Hall by PAC members on Monday, June 3.

Music teacher Judith Allen has arranged some fine choral and instrumental entertainment for parents and students June 5 at the annual spring concert.

The concert will be held in the school auditorium from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

The entire Wildwood School staff will be recognized for all their efforts on June 11. At that time, PAC members will treat the staff to a catered luncheon at the school.

Finally, June 14 is set aside for a school wide field day complete with races, a balloon throw, egg catching contest, and other activities. The whole program is under the direction of Physical Education Teacher Carol Hayes with PAC members providing a lunch of hot dogs, hamburgers, cold drinks and ice cream.

Educational Secretary Rosa Sadowski had only praise for the school PAC, which has helped sponsor so many of the year's activities.

"They are a very active group and generous with their efforts," she said.

Graduation has been streamlined

by Arlene Surprenant
In a departure from past graduation exercises, this year's "streamlined" high school ceremony will consist of two parts: an academic convocation to take place Saturday, June 1 at 7:30 p.m. in the gymnasium, and a diploma ceremony slated for 3:30 p.m. on Sunday, June 2 on the athletic field.

WHS Principal Paul Fleming hopes both ceremonies will be "a dignified celebration of accomplishment."

By having the award ceremony separate from the actual distribution of diplomas, Fleming hopes to make each senior, instead of just a few, feel a sense of pride in his individual accomplishments as his name is called on Sunday.

"We're into recognition of self-esteem," Fleming said.

While those students who excel academically deserve every honor they've attained, he said, all graduating seniors can feel justly proud of themselves, as can their parents. Sharing in those honors should be the Wilmington High teaching staff who deserve their part of the recognition, Fleming added.

Highlighting Saturday evening's program will be awards distributed for honor, excellence, and performance. Members of the National Honor Society as well as all scholarship winners will receive special recognition.

Adding to the overall enjoyment of the evening will be several selections by the high school band, under the direction of Barbara Mette, and music by the high school vocal group under Sandra Miemi.

Afterward, parents and students will be invited to a special reception sponsored by the school PAC and the school department.

On Sunday, students will march onto the field to the strains of Pomp and Circumstance to receive their long-awaited diplomas. Marshalls Pamela Davis and Lauren Callahan will lead in representatives of the 50th year class, the 25th year class, the school committee, the academic community of Wilmington High, other invited principals, and the graduates.

Valedictorian Jennifer St. Onge, Salutatorian James McFadyen, and Essayist Julie Richburg will all make speeches, as will Principal Paul Fleming and School Superintendent Dr. Carol Sager. Dr. Sager will present "symbols of recognition" to the three top seniors in the Class of 1985.

Environmental changes proposed for Concord Street industrial subdivision

Major environmental changes have been proposed by the firm of Spaulding & Slye, for a proposed industrial subdivision which is planned to be built along the Ipswich River in North Reading and Wilmington.

The proposals were discussed with the Wilmington Planning Board on May 28.

Preliminary plans for the proposed 74 acre subdivision, a year ago, caused fears in Reading because the proposed park is directly across the Ipswich River from the Reading public water supply.

Bill Moore, engineer, and two assistants, David Haines and Peter Johnson presented the new plans to the planning board. Those same plans had been exhibited, they said, to boards in Reading and North Reading during the past week.

The new plans for a sewage treatment plant are for a site near Concord Street and away from the river. It will be a treatment plant, with high fresh water quality which meets the state DEQE ground water permit, Moore said. Through a series of wells and cells the water will be discharged upstream, and then work its way back to the river, through the soil.

Moore called it "biological buffering," and said it would be creating wetlands on uplands, where wetlands were not, before.

The entrance to Riverpark 93 will be located across Concord Street from Fordham Road. The plan is for 800,000 square feet of buildings, one building of which will be in Wilmington.

The engineers believe it will be early spring, 1986 before construction will begin.

Bridge reconstruction still on hold

The proposed reconstruction of the New Boston Street Bridge in Woburn was discussed at a meeting of area legislators and State Department of Public Works officials in the State House on May 17. This group, including Senator Robert Buell, Senator Richard Kraus, Representative Nicholas Paleologos, Representative Geoffrey Beckwith, Representative James Miceli's aide Ricahrd Wilson, DPW Commissioner Robert Tierney, Chief Engineer Robert Mc Donough, and DPW regional office representative Howard Cheney, met to review alternatives for alleviating the New Boston Street traffic flow problem. The meeting had been called by Representative Paleologos of Woburn in hope of expediting both the bridge reopening and the redesigning of the Interstate 93 - Route 129 interchange.

In the course of the meeting, Senator Buell voiced his reservation that the completion of both projects might actually exacerbate the traffic problems in Woburn and Wilmington. The senator expressed concern that the significant expenditure of $2 million for rebuilding the bridge and an estimated $8 million for redesigning the interchange might have such an undesirable consequence.

Senator Buell reported that the encouraging word for Wilmington residents was that reconstruction of the New Boston Street Bridge has been delayed; the project is not likely to go out to bid until the spring of 1987.

Regional Water Policy Group to meet monthly

State Representative Geoffrey C. Beckwith, the legislator for Reading, North Reading and Wilmington's precinct 3, this week announced the establishment of an innovative three-town board, the Regional Water Policy Group (RWGP), to encourage regional cooperation on water policy issues.

Rep. Beckwith spent the past month contacting scores of local officials from Reading, North Reading and Wilmington, and worked with them to develop the RWGP. In all, 15 local boards from the three communities will sit on the panel, and Beckwith will serve as the chairman.

"The purpose of this undertaking is to bring local officials from our towns together on a regular basis to discuss our shared interest in fostering regional cooperation to preserve and protect adequate levels of safe water for our municipalities," said Beckwith, who serves on the Legislature's Natural Resources Committee, and is a member of the Groundwater Subcommittee in the House of Representatives.

"Specifically, the RWGP is intended to achieve three objectives," said Beckwith. "First, we will determine our region's common water problems and concerns. Second, our communities can work to develop a long-range joint plan of action designed to address these common problems. And third, we can provide local officials with a regular forum to meet face-to-face to alleviate tensions caused by short-term water disputes between towns."

"Certainly this is an ambitious project, but with talented leadership from our local officials, I know we can succeed in creating a model for regional cooperation," said Beckwith. "Water is a valuable resource, and this is one way we can move to protect it."

The Regional Water Policy Group will meet once a month, and representatives from the three town boards and departments will participate - board of selectmen, planning board, community planning commission, conservation commission, board - department of public works and the board of health.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
LAND COURT DEPARTMENT OF THE TRIAL COURT
(SEAL) Case No. 116456
To Richard W. Proctor, of Wilmington, Middlesex County, and Lucille G. Fleury, of Tewksbury, Middlesex County, both of said Commonwealth, and to all persons entitled to the benefit of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940 as amended.

Wells Fargo Credit Corp., a duly existing corporation having an usual place of business in Scottsdale, in the state of Arizona, claiming to be the holder of a mortgage covering real property in said Tewksbury, numbered 2253 Main Street, given by Henry J. Fleury and Rita A. Fleury to Homeowners Financial Services of Massachusetts, Inc., dated September 20, 1979, recorded with Middlesex County (Northern District) Registry of Deeds, Book 2285, Page 477, and now held by the plaintiff by assignment, has filed with said court a complaint for authority to foreclose said mortgage in the manner following, by entry and possession and exercise of power of sale.

If you are entitled to the benefits of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940 as amended and you object to such foreclosure you or your attorney should file a written appearance and answer in said court at Boston on or before the twenty-fourth day of June 1985, or you may be forever barred from claiming that such foreclosure is invalid under said act.

Witness, WILLIAM I. RANDALL, Chief Justice of said court this seventh day of May 1985.

Charles W. Trombly, Jr.
Recorder.

Two Wilmington girls receive Girl Scout award

Samantha Delorey and Sharon Hayward of Wilmington's Girl Scout Troop 354, received the Silver Award, the second highest honor a girl can earn in Girl Scouting, at a ceremony held in Andover on May 19.

The girls were presented their Silver Awards by their troop leader, Jane Delorey. At the ceremony, greetings were read from Governor Michael Dukakis, and all 25 recipients were congratulated by Lucille Bogel, president of Spar and Spindle Girl Scout Council.

In order to receive the Silver Award, a girl must earn the Challenge of Being a Girl Scout and the Silver Leadership Award, complete three Girl Scout Interest Projects, and participate in the Girl Scout Career Exploration Program. Samantha and Sharon each worked with different Junior Girl Scout troops as an aide to the leaders as part of the process of earning the Silver Award.

Thirty-two Girl Scouts in Spar and Spindle Scout Council earned the Silver Award this year. The Spar and Spindle Girl Scout Council serves 14,000 girls in 54 communities in northeastern Massachusetts and southern New Hampshire through the help of 2,500 adult volunteers. Girl Scouts who have earned the Silver Award and who are at least 14 years old may immediately begin work on the Gold Award, which is the highest honor a girl may earn.

Tom Aprile Memorial Tournament

Wilmington's high school softball reunion

Wilmington High School had its annual Memorial Weekend mass class reunion, with really no winners or losers involved. Fun and friendship were the bywords throughout the annual Tom Aprile Memorial Tournament played Saturday and Sunday at Town Park.

The classes of 1971 and 1980 won the championships of their respective brackets. The competition concluded with an open house at the Wilmington Sons of Italy, where over 300 players held their own Wilmington High School class reunion.

Sunday, May 26
1971 5 1961 4

Bill Gustus' three-run inside the park homer in the bottom of the seventh inning provided the margin of victory, as Dave Maglio pitched the win over Jack Cushing. Paul Lyman helped the winning cause with three hits, while the 1961 leaders were Dave Tuxbury with three hits and Paul Bova with a pair of safeties. Rick Frotton was a defensive star in the outfield for the class of '61.

1980 6 1983 5

Bob DiGirolamo drove home the game winning run, with Rod Millett and Tom Cotter each blasting two-run homers in support of 1980's winning hurler Susan Rowe. Bob Ducharme ripped a two-run double for the class of '83. Jon Nolan had two hits and three RBI's. Steve Hancox was the losing pitcher.

1961 13 1958 5

Winning pitcher Jack Cushing received plenty of stick support from Rick Frotton, Dave Tuxbury and Paul Bova with three hits apiece.

George Crowley and Gerry 'Scratch' O'Reilly slapped two hits apiece for the class of '58 losing pitcher Crowley.

1971 7 1965 5
Pat (Lawrenson) Irwin snared a line drive with the tying runs on base to save the game for the class of '71. Mates Snooky Lynch, Steve Catalano and Paul Lyman provided plenty of offense with two hits apiece in support of winning chucker Dave Maglio. Clara (Powers) Hamilton led '65 with a hit and two RBI's, while Dennis DeMaggio slapped two safeties. Dick Perreault was the losing pitcher.

1980 23 1973 5
Scott Richards powered the winners to a five inning rout with three hits that included a pair of homeruns. Dave Woods also chipped in with three hits. Steve Winston (two hits) and Ray Noel (homer) led the way for the '73 crew. Susan Rowe hurled the win over Jean Aprile. 1983 7 1974 2
Jon Nolan and Donna Foley combined for five hits, as Steve Hancox pitched the win over Mary Ann Gillis. Mike Herra had two hits for the class of '74. 1980 8 1982 7

The defending champs were knocked out of the tourney by the bats of Rod Millett (three-run homer, triple) and Keith MacDonald. Ted Moran was red-hot for '82 with a homer, triple and a double for five RBI's. Susan Rowe pitched the win over Mary Ann Gentile. Saturday, May 25
1961 9 1963 5
Paul Bova, Rick Frotton and Dick Hersom banged out three hits apiece for the winners as Jack Cushing hurled the win over Frank McLaughlin. 1965 7 1967 5

Ken Sarchione and Paul Currier rapped two hits apiece for the winners, while Rick Norton spanked a pair of safeties for the 1967 squad. Fred Neilson hurled the win over Jim Cushing. 1973 8 1972 3
Jean (Connell) Aprile (two hits) was the winning pitcher over Kathy (Brennan) Gillis.

getting bat support from Ray Noel with two hits. Ralph Barden led '72 with a pair of safeties. 1974 7 1975 2
Brian Phillips and Brian Davey pounded out two hits apiece for the winners as Mary Ann Gillis fired the win over Rick McCulley. Bob Peterson also had two hits. 1971 6 1969 5
Pat (Lawrenson) Irwin and Dick Gillis had two hits each, as Dave Maglio scored the eight inning victory over Andy Sullivan. Gene Baldwin (two-run triple) and Jim Tildsley (two hits) paced the class of '69. 1980 18 1977 8
Scott Richards and Steve Mosher rapped three hits and a homer apiece for the winners. Bob Woods rammed two homers for the class of '77. Susan Rowe pitched the win over Patty (Connell) Doucette. 1983 13 1981 4
Steve Hancox hurled the win over his sister Julie in the opening game of the tourney. Kevin Smith led the way for the winners with three hits, including a homerun. Bob Ducharme also belted a homer. Rusty Ryan (two hits) and Matt Phillips (triple) paced the class of '81.

Wilmington Pop Warner registration

attend th signup, a parent or guardian may register the youngster during the two signup dates. The Eastern Massachusetts Youth Football Conference has been reorganized into two major divisions for 1985 which will include a small town, as well as large town division. The division breakdown will enable towns of equal population to compete against one another. Cheerleader registration will be scheduled at a later date, pending the outcome of the player registration. For additional information, all players, parents or adults interested in participating in the Pop Warner program are urged to contact one of the following board members: Len Howard, 658-6824; Nancy Murphy, 657-7676; or Donna Stanley, 658-6418. Just a final reminder, that without sufficient support and participation from parents and other adults within the town, there will be no Pop Warner Program in Wilmington for the 1985 season.

Tewksbury Hockey Night

Redmen push past Wildcats

The intensity and excitement of a rivalry was never more in evidence as it was when the Tewksbury High School boys' track and field team traveled to Wilmington this past Wednesday for the final dual meet of the season for both teams. Tewksbury won 79-66, but as has been the case in all five of their wins, the Redmen came from behind to pull out the victory.

Wilmington took the early lead as Eric Cripasuk, a triple winner on this day, won the long jump over Tewksbury's Buddy MacAllister and Kenn Coviello with a 19'9" jump. Wilmington and Tewksbury were tied after the meet's second event, the shot put, as Tewksbury's Tom Monahan bested Wilmington's David Kelley and Daniel O'Donnell with a 39'8" toss.

The meet remained tied after the pole vault and the triple jump, as Wildcat Paul Quandt defeated Redmen Joe Hannon on one less miss in the pole vault, both vaulting 10'6" with Wilmington's Tom Pote taking third on less misses. In the triple jump, co-captain Buddy MacAllister of the Redmen upset both Frank Dinsmore of Wilmington and teammate Mark Christoffels with a 42'4 1/4" jump.

Wilmington went up by nine points as they took all three places in the javelin toss. Chris Athanasia defeated teammates Anthony Cutone and Peter Campbell with a 179'11" throw. Tewksbury came back with a first by Doug Noyes, and a third by Chris McHardy in the discus, with Noyes throwing the discus 138'8". Wilmington's Peter Campbell took second place in the discus.

The high jump turned into a real battle, as the rule book tie breaker had to be used with the bar being lowered in order for a winner to be determined. Mark Christoffels won the event with a 5'7" jump, while teammate Jim Field and Wildcat Chris Athanasia tied for second place. The field events ended with Wilmington holding a slim 32-31 lead.

Wilmington's Brian Ribeiro with a 10.05.5 time, won the two mile run over Tewksbury's Robbie Busch and Brian Tremblay to extend the Wildcat lead to two points, 37-35. Tewksbury's Buddy MacAllister's hard work in practice culminated on this day as he added another personal best win to his triple jump performance with a convincing win in the 120 yard high hurdles over Kevin Cripasuk and Richard Smith with a time of 16.4. Wilmington's Eric Cripasuk neutralized the hurdle event, as he edged out Tewksbury's Richie Lapham and Kenn Coviello in the 100 meter run with a 11.2 time.

With the score 46-44 Wilmington, Tewksbury took the lead for the first time and for good, as Steven Murphy and Dave Flanagan took first and third for the Redmen in the mile. Murphy's time of 4:47.6 beat out Wildcat Jamie Penny.

The 4 x 110 relay team of Pat Green, Jim Field, Eric Meininghaus and Kenn Coviello led the Redmen to a 47.0 time and a 55-49 Tewksbury lead. Tewksbury continued its roll in the next two events, as 440 yard man Ed Piscopo came from behind on the final straight away to edge out Wildcat ace John Desforge in a very fast 51.4. Michael Michaud of Wilmington took third in the 440 yard run.

The 330 yard low hurdles was the key event for the Redmen, as Tewksbury's Richie Lapham and Jimmy Field took one-two with a fast 41.2 and 41.5 times respectively, with Steven Schultz of Wilmington taking third place.

The TMHS lead was upped to 68-54 before Frank Dinsmore and Eric Torrell of Wilmington took first and third in the .880 yard run, with Joe Hannon of the Redmen being edged out by Dinsmore's 2:01.8 time. Needing 75 points to win the meet and leading, 71-60 Tewksbury's Mark Christoffels finished second to Wildcat Eric Cripasuk's 23.2. 220 yard dash,

The North Wilmington Shell squad is off to a 3-3 start in the Wilmington Softball League. Game reports on the league will appear in next week's Town Crier.

Tewksbury Youth Soccer

Clippers boot Spartans, 4-1

Clippers 4 Spartans 1
In Tewksbury Youth Soccer League action May 4, the Clippers chalked up another win with goals spread out among the team, with one each for Mike Jasilewicz, Fran Correia, Billy Carroll and Joe Stephens, ably assisted with strong all-around offense by Maria Giglio.

The Spartans' goal was powered home by Gary Walsh with an assist from Erica Ward. Solid efforts were turned in by Laurie Carrigg on defense and Keith Leahy and Mark Plazkowicz at halfback.

Dynamos 9 Falcons 2

The Dynamos scoring was led by David Bell with the first three goals of the game, Steve Gunther with two, and one apiece for Scott Selissen, and the first goals ever by Kathy Doherty, Steve Amirault and Nathan Kenney.

The Falcons' talented Sal Ruocchio scored their two goals, with an assist on one to Jay Geyer. Contributing to the team effort were hard working halfbacks Cindy Paymond and Maryellen Obert.

Astros 6 Wildcats 2

The Astros' Steven Field rocketed in two scores this week, with another two goals off the foot of Wally Jopp, with one each for Richard Kim and Jim Nowak. Congratulations to defensemen David Wiley and Adam Frasca for contributing to this fine win.

The Wildcats' scoring came from Jeff Halloran, with an assist to Chris Alfieri and Jason Hyde with help from Jason Hughes. Peter Hanseau played a strong game at halfback.

Cougars 3 Comets 3

In this head-to-head battle, the Cougars' Sal Reitano scored all three goals, with an assist on one to Jimmy Hackett. All-around outstanding field play by Jeff Araujo and Jason Araujo and excellence at the halfback position by Danny Sprague helped keep the score tight throughout.

The Comets' scoring was spread among forwards Marc Silva, Manny Espinola and Jimmy Maxwell, with congrats on defense to Corrine Angelo, Katie Baldwin and Lori Salmeri.

Under 12 Division

Dynamos 7 Astros 1

The Dynamos scoring once again was spread among all the forwards, with two each by Bob Hooley and Steve Gunther and one apiece for David Bell, Scott Selissen and Nathan Kenney.

The Astros' unassisted goal was motored in by Jim Nowak, with fine efforts by goalie Brian McCadden, halfback David Wiley and Sarah Smith and Kim Ward on defense.

Spartans 2 Comets 2

In this toe-to-toe defensive battle, the Spartans' scorers were Jason Connolly and Gary Walsh, with congrats to Carl

Passing will highlight Classic

The word is out. The fortunes of this year's North and South teams in the Seventh Annual Shriners High School Football Classic, co-sponsored by the Shriners of Aleppo Temple in Wilmington and the Massachusetts High School Football Coaches Association, may well rise or fall largely on the passing performances of two exceptional quarterbacks.

The Saturday, June 22, fundraiser kicks off at 4 p.m. at Boston College's Alumni Stadium, Beacon Street, Chestnut Hill, with pre-game festivities getting underway at 3:15 p.m. It's all for the benefit of the Shriners Burns Institute in Boston, the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children in Springfield and 20 other Shriners hospitals nationwide.

The game highlights two young athletes with outstanding passing credentials. Shawn Kennedy of Boston Latin will be calling many of the shots for the North, while Mike Power, who hails from Westborough, will lead the South.

Kennedy led Divisions II and III with 19 touchdown passes in 1984 and a total of 51 for his high school career. He's both a Boston Globe and Boston Herald all-star and was picked Player of the Year by the Boston Globe. He also received honorable mention from the All-American National Football Association.

A high school senior who will attend Boston College this fall, the 5'11" quarterback is also known for his community involvement. He enjoys helping people less fortunate than himself and took on the responsibility of leading a blind Boston Latin seventh grader, Adam Linn, to class every day.

Power is co-captain of his Westborough team and fired 23 touchdown passes this year for a total of 1957 yards. He has 50 touchdown passes to his credit in his high school career. The 6'3", 177 pound athlete led his team to a Division I Super Bowl title over Fitchburg this year and was named co-captain of the Worcester Telegram and Gazette team. He's been awarded 12 varsity letters in sports, including basketball, baseball and football. As a junior, Power was offered a scholarship to play football at Boston College. He accepted, and will attend B.C. in the fall.

Power and Kennedy will be key players in their teams' efforts to triumph in this seventh tiebreaking year of the Classic. Both the North and South are going in to the game with three wins apiece.

Doug Flutie, honorary chairman of this year's game, explains that after six years, the Classic has been moved to the afternoon. "This offers families more of a chance to enjoy the game together," says the Heisman Trophy winner who played in the 1981 Classic and led his South team to victory.

In addition to the 90 all-star or all-scholastic players from 75 eastern Massachusetts hometowns giving their all on the field, fans will also be treated to the antics of Shriners clowns, the halftime activities that feature the precision close-order drill of the award-winning Boston Drug & Bugle Corps and colorful Shriners bands in full regalia. Two hundred cheerleaders from 25 participating schools will round out the spirit.

Football King, 16-year-old Richard Belanger of Lowell, an outpatient at the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children, who lost both feet in a train accident a year ago, and Football Queen Darlene Murphy of Lynn, also 16, who suffered burns over 60 percent of her body in a house fire when she was nine and has received treatment at the Shriners Burns Institute, will both be crowned at halftime.

Belanger and Murphy represent the thousands of children under age 18 who are treated free of charge at Shriners hospitals. Games like the Classic, the latest of 53 Shrine games - both high school and college - played annually nationwide, make this free care possible.

Putting forth their best efforts for these children will be talented high school athletes like running back Sean Cummings of Lexington and end-linebacker James Slattery of Lowell for the North squad and quarterback Paul Ghilani of Natick and running back Odell Wilson of Brockton for the South.

The coaching staffs also represent the state's finest. Mike Cavanaugh, who directed North Andover to the Cape Ann League championship this year, oversees the efforts of the North squad, while Tri-Valley League Triehamp-Hopkinton's Dave Hughes, does the honors for the South.

Aiding the head coaches are, for the North, Art Valicenti of Thayer Academy, Lowell's Walter Nelson, John Hanlon of Arlington, Minuteman Tech's Bill Coughlin and Westford Academy's John Morris.

The South's five assistant coaches are Dave Driscoll of Dighton-Rehoboth Regional, Plymouth - Carver's Carl Freymuth, Vin Hickey of Blue Hills Regional Vocational, Westborough's Jan Gebo and Jan Martinelli of Foxboro High.

Liaison men are John Barbati of Watertown High for the North and Bob Bancroft of Whitman-Hanson Regional for the South. The trainers are Michael Pomerleau from Somerset High for the South and Peter Cacciola from Bedford for the North.

Another outstanding coach who has been associated with the Classic since he co-founded it with Ed Johnston of Aleppo Temple in Wilmington is Game Director Jim O'Connor. Athletic Director at West Roxbury's Catholic Memorial High School for 14 years, O'Connor was recently honored for 25 years of service to the school. He has also served as game director since the Classic's inception.

Dr. Sal Russo, Aleppo Temple Oriental Guide and General Chairman of the game, says that the game's motto, "Strong legs run so that weak legs may walk", reflects the spirit of everyone involved with the Classic. "These fine athletes know who they're playing for - the children in Shrine hospitals," says Russo. Russo knows first-hand the good done at Shriners hospitals. As administrator at the Burns Institute in Boston for 11 years, he oversees all aspects of patient care there.

Aleppo Temple's Potentate, Paul Miller, also stresses that there is more than one set of heroes in the Classic. "The children fighting the battles of their lives in Shriners hospitals are to be admired for their courage and bravery every bit as much as the fine young men on the playing field who are giving of themselves to help those less fortunate."

Others making the Classic possible this year are Converse, Inc., the official sponsor; and John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company, Coca-Cola Bottling Company of New England, Rabboni Lodge A.F. & A.M. and Fourth Masonic District.

Converse will provide athletic footwear, T-shirts and socks to players, coaches and trainers. Coca-Cola will give jackets to players, T-shirts to cheerleaders and a most valuable player award trophies to key players.

At an appreciation banquet on Friday, June 21, at 6:30 p.m., at the Shriners Auditorium in Wilmington, players will be issued their game jerseys, the official coin toss will determine who will receive the opening kickoff, Shrine bands will perform and a well-known sports personality will speak. The public is invited, but reservations are necessary. Tickets are $15.00 each.

Game tickets are $3.00 in advance or $4.00 at the gate. Both advance tickets for the game and banquet are available at the Shriners Auditorium (Exit 13 off I-93, Wilmington) or by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with check enclosed to Shriners Football Classic, 99 Fordham Road, Wilmington, MA 01887.

For more information about this entertaining and worthwhile fundraiser, or if your organization is interested in placing an ad in the program book, call Harold Foley at (617) 665-6466 or 657-4202.

Youth soccer from page 14

Sussenberger and Gregg Scurka on defense and in goal and a fine all-around performance by Jimmy Scanzillo.

The Comets' goals came off the feet of Mark Silva and Manny Espinola, with stellar outings by Kathy Brown and Danielle Langolis on defense.

Falcons 3 Wildcats 1

Falcon forwards Sal Ruocchio with two and Joey Centrella with one goal led the way, with an assist by Cindy Raymond. Goalie Tommy Bryant and defenseman Mario Sganga also played well for the winners.

The Wildcats' talented Chris Alfieri also scored, with an assist to Jeff Halloran and Jason Hughes. Outstanding defense by Joe Bangs and Jimmy Durost kept this a tight matchup.

Clippers 5 Cougars 2

The Clippers' stars were Fran Correia with two goals and James Martin, Billy Carroll and Chad DiCalegiero with one each. Excellent play by Mike and James Donovan helped rack this one up in the Clipper win column.

The Cougars' points came from Sal Reitano and Jimmy Hackett, with super work by Danny Sprague at midfield and Jason Araujo and Michael Bone at the fullback positions.

Youth baseball from page 13

Jesse Sawyer had three hits and a walk. Lyle Morgan and Brian O'Neill had two hits and two walks to lead the potent hitting attack. Brian Merrow, Benji Lombardi and Adam Bishop led the team with two walks each. Kenny Lombardi and Scott Johnson contributed with one walk apiece.

Tina Rideout hit a hard smash to first to show marked improvement at the plate. The defensive star of the game was Eric Morris. Eric made two major league plays at third to retire each baserunner.

Dog officer responds to complaints

by Arlene Surprenant
In a department update for Wilmington selectmen Tuesday night, Dog Officer Joseph Balestrieri answered complaints brought against him at the annual town meeting.

Balestrieri had been included in the selectmen's agenda at the suggestion of Selectman Jim Stewart so that Balestrieri might tell his side of the story. Balestrieri has held his part time position for 17 years. According to him, many of the residents complaining are those who have been fined for one reason or another. He said he's always been "accessible" to residents and even has an answering machine taking calls when he's not home. As far as he's concerned, he said, he finds "no problem" getting back to people who call. The real problem is when people file a dog complaint and don't leave an address so he can follow through, he said.

Further discussion centered around whether the position of dog officer should be part time, as it is currently, or full time. Balestrieri told the selectmen he puts in close to 40 hours now instead of the regulation 20.

In order to do his job properly, Balestrieri said, he should be out patrolling the streets full time. His department also should rightly come under the jurisdiction of the Wilmington

Police Department, he said.

Selectman Dan Ballou said he felt strongly that Balestrieri isn't getting enough compensation for all the hours he puts in and the "excellent" job he is doing.

While Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski said he's "not convinced" the position should be full time, Chairman of the Board of Selectmen Bob Doucette told Balestrieri that if he turned over his log on a monthly basis to the town manager, perhaps they'd all realize "you have more coming to you." At the present time, the board has no way of telling this, he said.

Wilmington police news

Noxious odors

Ammonia fumes were twice noted last week, in the Eames Street - Woburn Street area of Wilmington. Several firms were checked out by the police department and not found to be the source of the fumes. Wilmington Police named a firm that is located near the corner of Woburn and Eames Streets as probably being the source of the fumes.

Four persons were sent to hospitals from Electronized Chemicals, of Industrial Way, but released very shortly. Two were sent to the Winchester Hospital and two to the Regional Health Center in Wilmington. Nothing has been found to indicate the firm was responsible, in investigations by the fire department and the board of health.

Arrests

Joseph Palermo of Lenox was arrested last Wednesday in the Lawrence Court on a default warrant from Wilmington Police. He was charged with larceny by check, and arraigned in Woburn Court. Palermo was released to the Lenox police on two complaints of larceny.

Officers Shepard and Mauriello arrested a Tewksbury man on narcotics charges Wednesday. Scott Ward, 18, of 52 Grasshopper Lane was charged with possession of, with intent to sell a class D substance. Also arrested was David Vitt, 22, of Chandler Street, Tewksbury, by virtue of a state police warrant issued by the Concord Court.

Officer Pat King arrested David Bunarowski of Beaver Brook Road, Burlington

Thursday evening. He was charged with operating a motor vehicle without a license in his possession, and operating a motor vehicle which was unregistered and uninsured, and charged with falsely attaching license plates.

Shortly after midnight on Saturday, Officer Steve LaRivee arrested a local man on an assault and battery charge after investigating an incident on Cypress Street. Clayton J. Hopel, Jr., 20, of Christine Drive was charged with two counts of assault and battery by means of a dangerous weapon, a pellet gun, and also charged with possession of a dangerous weapon. One of the two victims was treated at the Regional Health Center and released.

Officer Frank Hancock arrested an Arlington man early Saturday morning, charging him with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

Warrant arrests

Arrested in Tyngsboro was James Horan 22, of 311 Andover St., Billerica on a Wilmington warrant. He was bailed from the Wilmington lockup.

Officer Venuti arrested Robert Jones of Lawrence Friday on a state police default warrant. He was turned over to the Andover State Police. Officer Peterson arrested Brenda L. Hickey of Tewksbury on a Tewksbury warrant. She was released to the Tewksbury police.

Tewksbury police arrested Paul Hill of Lake Street, Wilmington on a default warrant issued by the Concord Court.

Miscellaneous

Officer Chris Neville arrested a local woman Monday evening after an investigation of larceny of a moped from the Shawheen Variety Store. Jacqueline Holmes, 21, of Benson Road, Wilmington was charged with receiving stolen property valued at over $100. The arrest was made with the assistance of Billerica police who stopped the defendant in Billerica. A second person, a male, fled the scene.

William Jones of 114 Nichols St., sustained two broken legs Saturday morning when he fell from the Nichols Street bridge. He was found beside the railroad tracks, below the bridge by officers King and Cuoco and taken to the Choate Memorial Hospital in the fire department ambulance.

Many complaints are being made to the police station about trail bikes and three wheel bikes. Ballfields, in all parts of town, are being damaged. Recent reports name the Town Hall ballfield, the West Intermediate and the North Intermediate schools ballfields.

No one has the right to operate a vehicle over private property or town property without permission of the property owner. Any vehicle being operated on the streets of the town must be registered and have insurance.

Anyone caught operating and causing damage will be prosecuted for malicious damage and will be charged for the cost of repairs.

There were only five accidents during the past week, but there were 14 arrests. There was one case of assault and battery, three of breaking and entering, and three cases of domestic problems. There were three disturbances, three fires, and seven cases of larceny. Twelve persons were put into protective custody.

Two vehicles were reported stolen, there were four reports of suspicious activity, and five trailbike complaints. Three persons were reported missing, three stolen vehicles were recovered, and there were three traffic complaints.

Four reports of threats were received, and nine cases of vandalism. Among things stolen - a bike, a mailbox, a tape recorder, a pocketbook and a radio.

Selectmen sign housing deeds

by Arlene Surprenant
Selectmen agreed Tuesday night to sell the 11 parcels of land voted on last fall to the Wilmington Housing Authority (WHA) for one dollar each to be used for Chapter 705 scattered site homes.

They added the restriction, however, that the Mass. Executive Office of Community Development (EOCD) must guarantee four elderly units for every one scattered site home and that two of the larger lots be subdivided for possible trade-off or sale to other developers to make the sites truly scattered.

The action was taken when WHA members and Chapter 705 architect Michael Hicks came before selectmen for signatures on the deeds of the eight new low to moderate income homes.

In a slide presentation, Hicks pointed out the homes will be three bedroom, single family "industrialized (factory made)" homes costing $35,000 each. According to Hicks, five of the homes will be located on separate lots in the Lost Colony area and three will be placed on separate sites in the King Street and St. Paul Street section of town.

This grouping of the homes was done at the state's behest as the most economical way to proceed, said Executive Director Lillian Buckley. And since the 32 units of elderly housing is predicated on the low to moderate income homes, the state's wishes must be met or the grant would be in jeopardy, she added.

Though the board found the homes attractive, Selectman Rocco DePasquale took strong exception to the location of the sites.

"I bear too many scars" from confrontations of the past few years, he said, not to question whether these locations would pass as true scattered sites. He pointed out that putting eight homes in two areas is only done for the "convenience" of the developer, but said his board would have to take the final responsibility in resident's eyes.

DePasquale also said putting the homes so close together might place "a stigmatism of some sort" on the area and he thought the intent of residents was to avoid that.

Selectman Bob Cain took another view. Even though several homes are close together, he said, if they are attractive they might even "upgrade" the neighborhood. He pleaded with the board not to do anything to jeopardize the new elderly housing now within the town's grasp.

WHA Chairman Kevin McMillan admitted "you can't make everyone happy" but said "we have to start somewhere." He pointed out that his board has "fought pretty hard to get this far," all the time working under a great deal of pressure.

WHA Member Warren Newhouse agreed. After all the sites were checked out, he explained, there was nothing much left but these 11 parcels. He admitted he wasn't totally happy with the final locations either.

In the end, DePasquale, who lobbied for the extra restrictions, agreed this was "the best compromise we can make" and the selectmen signed the deeds.

Twelve contractors in bidding for high school renovations

"Some very big companies" with large construction site experience took out bid documents for the high school renovation construction phase slated to begin this summer, Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski told the board of selectmen Tuesday night.

The companies, by law, can be "disallowed" for one reason or another, he said. Because of this law, bidders were pared down from 26 to 12 companies. These 12 now have one month to return the documents for the final selection process, Stapczynski said.

When Selectman Bob Cain asked if the bid will come in at the bottom line figure with the original design intact, Stapczynski said they may come in with alternates or they may have to redesign if the amount is over budget. There is a redesign clause built into the contract, Stapczynski explained, that states if they have to redesign, the town wouldn't have to bear the costs.

Selectman Jim Stewart suggested meeting in executive session with the permanent building committee next Monday to plan some "strategy" to avoid costly delays if they need to redesign the plans. The board agreed to his suggestion.

sell it, realizing a large profit, DePasquale said. Shine explained the land belongs to DAV headquarters in Cincinnati and he's not authorized to sell it. If the DAV builds on it, they will need the approval of abutters first, he said.

Selectman Jim Stewart suggested that the DAV might rent the Walker School, though it was pointed out the group would need to apply for variances and it might prove difficult in the long run.

Council meets June 3

The June Council on Aging meeting will be held Monday, June 3 starting at 1:30 p.m. An update on the Buzzell Senior Center renovation will be given and the election of officers for the coming year will take place. All seniors are urged to attend. Raffle winners

At the May social, Lillian Brown and Betty McLaughlin, members of the renovation committee, collected enough gifts from stores in the plaza to organize a raffle. With the help of Emmett Schmarsow of the Department of Elder Affairs, the following names were pulled as winners - George Justice, spider bike; Dot Travis, Koosas kid; Mertie Dalton, Care Bear, all donated by Mike Riddle, plasterer; M. Kirby, dog radio donated by Radio Shack. Dick of Wilmington Grain - food certificate from Lucci; Larz Neilson, $25.00 Rocco gift certificate donated by Clipper Barber Shop; Lorraine Waterman, Hallmark album donated by Harvest Gift Shop;

Nickie Oksensak, silver tie and cuff set donated by King Jewelry; Vickie Medeiros, $10.00 129 gift certificate; Anita Gleason, wash and set donated by Beauty Terrace.

Health care benefits

There have been changes proposed regarding health care benefits for veterans. Presently over 4,000,000 veterans receive free medical care because they are over 65. That number is expected to double by 1990. The Reagan Administration is seeking to restrict health benefits by using a means test, i.e. if a veteran over 65 as an income of more than $15,000 a year, he would no longer be eligible for care unless his illness was the direct result of military service. The Administration cuts to the veterans would also seek payment from medicare and private insurance, would limit construction of hospitals and reduce personnel. This is a very complex issue which should be carefully watched. If you are a veteran receiving medical treatment in a veterans hospital, it is important to notify your representative and senator in Washington, letting them know you strongly object to all these changes in veterans' medical care.

Vacation trip
If you are a senior looking for a vacation trip, you will find posted on the bulletin board at the Senior Center all brochures received from travel agencies. The Center does not book those trips, but has two seniors who have volunteered to do it. They are Frances Calandrello and Mae Cannizaro. Those looking to travel should check with either of them. Frances can be reached at 658-8805; Mae at 658-9862.

Austin Prep. Headmaster Rev. Thomas C. Kenny, O.S.A. admires the certificate which senior Daniel Niles received from a representative of Gov. Dukakis after winning first place in the chemistry division of the Mass. State Science Fair at M.I.T.

Another win for Austin Prep Niles nabs first in state science fair

Daniel Niles, a senior at Austin Preparatory School in Reading, has continued to win major awards in science, and has been granted a $2,000 National Merit Scholarship. At the Massachusetts State Science Fair, held recently at M.I.T., Niles won first place in the chemistry division. His project was on the "Photoexcitation of H<sub>2</sub>CS." Niles is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. W. Dayalan Niles of Carter Road, Lynn.

At the MIT fair the young Austin senior joined 200 other aspiring scientists for the state's 36th annual Science Fair. The fair is sponsored by M.I.T., the Boston Globe, and the Massachusetts State Science Fair Committee. Niles received a certificate from a representative of Gov. Dukakis in ceremonies held in MIT's Kresge Auditorium. He also received an all-expense-paid grant to participate in the National Youth Science Camp. This is a three-week camp which will be held in Bartow, West Virginia. The governors, of all fifty states each send two representatives to the fair. Niles will join Sanjivan Sjavipragasam in representing the Commonwealth.

Daniel Niles also presented a paper at the New England Junior Science and Humanities Symposium, which is one of 40 regional competitions in the United States. At that symposium he presented the results of his research orally, with the help of visual aids, to a group of students and teachers. There he took second place, earning a $250 scholarship, and an all-expenses-paid trip to the National Junior Science and

Boston booms under Coyle

Boston's profile in 1963 and 1985: from modest spires and domes to urban alps

When the top picture was taken the steel skeleton of the Prudential Tower, which displaced the original John Hancock building as the city's tallest structure, was rising; since then old Dame Boston has traded her traditional garb for a mantle of concrete, steel, and glass.

By Cheryl C. Sullivan
Staff writer of The Christian Science Monitor

It's unanimous: Boston is a boomtown. Real estate consultants, developers, city officials, and neighborhood groups agree that the Hub's current development boom may be unprecedented so far this century.

Gone are the not-too-distant days when the city had to wheedle, beg, and give tax breaks to reticent developers. Today, developers are "knocking down the door at the BRA [Boston Redevelopment Authority]," says a top executive at one real estate consulting firm.

But the boom is different things to different people — and not all the expectations are good.

To developers the hot market, fueled by a pent-up demand for office space downtown, is a good chance to make short-term profits. More than $3 billion in private capital is expected to be funneled into Boston during the next five years.

To BRA director Stephen F. Coyle the boom is a "unique opportunity for Boston to improve itself. There's positive reinvestment here," he says, "and we want to fix up a lot of areas that have needed redevelopment for years."

But in the neighborhoods reaction is mixed. Those people who put out the welcome mat for development say it will bring new jobs for local residents, increase personal income, and revitalize blighted areas. Others warn that the housing market will overheat if the downtown office market gets much hotter. Rents are already the highest of any city in the United States, and residential property values are rising at the fastest rate in the nation, notes Michael Kane, coordinator of the Boston Affordable Housing Coalition.

He is concerned that newcomers who move to Boston to fill the jobs downtown will "displace" longtime neighborhood residents when competition for scarce housing drives rents even higher. Displacement has already occurred in some city neighborhoods, Mr. Kane says.

The tight housing market is also worrisome to the real estate industry. Companies will think twice about locating in Boston if there is no place for their employees to live, says Thomas J. Hynes Jr., executive vice-president of the Boston real estate consulting and brokerage firm, Meredith & Grew Inc. The "enormous inflation in housing costs" is not a result of speculation, but of the search "for fundamental shelter," he adds.

It's ironic that the pro-growth development community and the most antigrowth neighborhood groups have identified the same need: more housing. Still, because they disagree on how this need can best be met, it has fallen to the city to pave the way to affordable housing.

To the BRA's Mr. Coyle, the solution lies in requiring developers to "build mixed developments. Build retail, office, and housing, and put it in the same building. Just be clever about it." In that way, he says, the city will "lessen the burdens caused by commuting" and will "take the pressures off the neighborhoods that come as a result of people working in the city, wanting to live closer to their jobs."

Coyle, who has been in charge of the city's planning agency for a full year under Mayor Raymond L. Flynn's administration, calls this sort of development "balanced growth." But Coyle himself has a difficult balancing act to perform. He must walk a fine line, on one side prodding developers even to consider housing construction and on the other side trying to placate neighborhood groups who want more low-income housing and sealed-down buildings.

For now, however, Coyle is negotiating with developers from a position of strength. Boston is one of the top five markets in the nation, he says, explaining that the total return for investors in the Hub "is very high."

Boston "compares favorably to all other cities," he says, noting that its direct competitors are Manhattan, San Francisco, and Washington. "Demand for new office space is drawing them," Coyle says of developers who have flocked to Boston from other countries as well as from other states.

ROVING

FM TALK: Our far-flung correspondent hit the road recently to find out what some local residents think about several key issues currently in the news.

On Operation Last Call, Linda K. of Wakefield, said, "I think it's a good idea. Even though we've had some good results from the recent police crackdown on drunk driving, we need even more drastic action to keep drunk drivers off the roads, especially now that summer is coming."

Linda's husband, Robert, agreed with his wife, but had this reservation to add: "I think the crackdown is necessary, too, but as far as Operation Last Call is concerned, I wonder how long the police will be able to get away with just walking into a bar and placing intoxicated patrons under protective custody before the constitutionality of it is questioned. What if a customer happens to have a handicap? Say he's got a speech impediment and a club foot. He can't speak normally and he can't walk normally. Is he going to be accidentally placed under PC too?"

Bill, a truck driver from Wilmington, noted: "I think the police have the right idea. Intimidate a bar that isn't doing its job responsibly by going after the drunk patrons right in the bar. The police should force cities and towns to suspend the license of a bar for one day for

MEMORIAL DAY

It's Memorial Day again,
And I have a question or two:
From the lads up here to the lads down there,
As they pass along in review.

I'm from World War I, you see,
Up here beyond the blue,
And Joe, he died in Korea,
Little Pete in World War II.

We have so many questions,
But what we'd really like to know:
Are wars still being fought today,
As they were so long ago?

Has all the dying been for naught?
Is there no lasting Peace?
Are children scared to go to bed?
Did the gunfire never cease?

But just a moment — someone's coming,

And I must be at my best;
To shake his hand in welcome,
— And usher him in with the rest.

Dear boy, I'm truly sorry,
You are so very young;
A Private, Sir? You just arrived,
From a place called Vietnam?

They march today as they did before,
Heads up, in step with the Band:
From World War I and World War II,
Korea and Vietnam.

And I must join my Company,
I can no longer stay;
My buddies are forming in line up here,
To march this Memorial Day.

Boston redevelopment director Stephen Coyle uses mural of city to describe plans

COYLE from S-1

But what economic forces are fueling Boston's growth? And how long will the boom last? The BRA and real estate specialists, such as Mr. Hynes, give almost identical answers.

Service industries. Today financial institutions, insurance and real estate companies, advertising agencies, law firms, and support services for the region's high-technology companies provide more than half of the city's total employment. Hynes calls it "the service sector." Coyle calls it "the modern transaction economy." They agree that these expanding industries are driving the boom. Manufacturing, once a leading sector in the city, now employs only 9 percent of the total labor force.

Institutions. Museums, Prestigious universities. Some of the finest medical facilities in the nation. Yes, even the Boston Pops. These contribute to what Hynes describes as a "favorable quality of life" in Boston.

History. "The first thing people see — especially overseas investors — is [that] there are a lot of comfortable ties, culturally, with Boston," Coyle says. "They sense a community that reveres and respects its past. You do not always get this sense in American cities."

Proposition 2½. Until the tax-cutting measure was adopted in 1980, the corporate tax burden here was much higher. Currently it's running about 15 percent of gross annual income, which is akin to the national average, according to Coyle and Hynes. They note that Boston, with about 25 million square feet of premium office space, cannot compare with cities such as Manhattan (270 million square feet) and Houston (120 million).

But Hynes points out that some Sunbelt cities like Houston, which "built with unbridled enthusiasm" during the early '70s, have undergone "a dramatic retrenchment after the energy market turned around."

In Boston the problem is the opposite: not enough supply to meet demand. Coyle says this is partly attributable to the history of controls placed on the market. "We [the BRA] have got 20 projects. We could just wave a wand and they'd all be out there — people would be building," he says. "[But] it wouldn't be good for the city. We make [developers] go through a very detailed design and review process. But it isn't slow and it isn't arbitrary."

Of the downtown projects Coyle inherited from the previous administration, 10 have been approved. Two of those — Rowe's Wharf and International Place — are already under construction. In some of the projects, buildings will be smaller and mass will be reduced. Others have been completely redesigned, the BRA director says.

From a developer's viewpoint, Hynes explains, the city's review process, which includes citizen comments and environmental studies, is an extensive system of checks and balances. "The system certainly doesn't work in the favor of developers," he says, adding that building in Boston requires "commitment and deep pockets."

But if the real estate community is not entirely satisfied, neither are some of the neighborhood groups.

Syvalia Hyman III, president of United South End/Lower Roxbury Development Corporation (UDC), says the city has not done enough to "spread development appropriately over the land mass of the city. It's concentrated in a few neighborhoods."

As a result, speculation is on the rise in those areas, Mr. Hyman says. In the South End, a gutted apartment building that went for $160,000 in May 1983 was sold for $300,000 and then recently resold for $400,000, he says. Neither of the first two owners invested a dime in the property, he adds. Because the new owner's acquisition costs were so high, he will probably be forced to ask high rents after he rehabilitates the building, Hyman says.

Lately the BRA's focus has turned to Roxbury, one of the poorest, most depressed neighborhoods in the city. Coyle says he hopes to redirect downtown growth into Roxbury, with emphasis on office buildings, a shopping arcade, parks, and hotel rooms.

But Roxbury residents, looking at what happened in the neighboring South End, are wary of this sort of "investment," says Hyman, even though it brings jobs. Himself a Roxbury homeowner, Hyman explains that he doesn't want property values in the neighborhood to escalate so much "that when I'm retired and living on a fixed income I won't be able to pay the [property] taxes."

Even so, he points out that "displacement" need not occur in Roxbury, even with the influx of wealthier residents. The sizable tracts of vacant land in the area could be developed to provide housing for the newcomers, he suggests. Coyle endorses that concept, as well as the idea that local citizens should have a voice in determining the future of their neighborhoods. But he has already been criticized for negotiating with developers before talking with Roxbury residents.

There is no doubt that the BRA director will be closely watched by neighborhood groups — even while he performs a delicate balancing act from his ninth-floor office at City Hall.

think more responsibility when it comes to serving liquor to its customers.

Barbara T., from Burlington, disagrees with the idea of going after the patrons of bars in order to intimidate bar owners into being more responsible. "I still think the bottom line rests with the person who sits at the bar and takes the drinks. If he isn't responsible, no matter what the bar owners do, drunk driving will not be stopped."

A lawyer from this area stated he is concerned about Operation Last Call being too much of a police state-like operation. He said, "The state is very gung-ho on ridding the highways of drunk drivers, but I have to seriously question the constitutionality of Operation Last Call. There's too much room for innocent people to be hurt by these police activities. Sure, I want to see drunk drivers off the road, but I don't want to see a lot of innocent people go through embarrassment to achieve it. Let's get the hardcore drunk drivers, the real problem drinkers, off the road and leave the innocent, responsible individual alone."

On the drafting of Patrick Ewing by the New York Knicks, one ardent sports fan from had this to say: "If someone had said to me that this year's NBA draft was going to be fixed, I couldn't have imagined it turning out any differently. Of the seven teams that had a shot at Ewing, only the Knicks from a city where Ewing would receive any substantial publicity. Of course he's going to want to go to New York City! He's no fool. He wants to be where the limelight is. He doesn't want to end up in some forsaken city where he'd be lost, except for his ability to play basketball. They say this year's draft wasn't fixed, or pre-arranged, but if you ask me, the whole thing looked and sounded like it was in the bag. The NBA needs a quick fix, and Ewing's going to be that fix. The teams that lost out to Ewing knew it before they ever stepped into the room where the lottery was held."

On whether or not the city of Philadelphia handled the terrorist activities of the radical group known as MOVE in the proper manner, one local policeman indicated: "I have very ambivalent feeling about whether or not the mayor should have given the police carte blanche to drop that percussion grenade. I agree that some form of action had to be taken, judging from what I've read in the papers and seen on the news. But I wonder if there wasn't something that could have been done sooner to defuse the situation."

Anthony G., of Woburn, stated, "I agree that something had to be done to stop MOVE. What I don't understand is why so many blacks in Philadelphia cried out that it was simply a case of whites bombing blacks, when it was their own black mayor who gave the police the O.K. to just go in and do whatever they had to do to put an end to MOVE."

An elderly woman from Winchester thought the whole incident was ridiculous, and explained why: "The whole issue exploded over an argument over a parking space! That confrontation led to a war like battle that could have been avoided."

Paul C., from Wakefield: "My major criticism is that the bombing was indiscriminate. I think the police could have at least attempted to use more, say, tear gas in an effort to get the MOVE members out of their building. Instead, hundreds of innocent people had to lose their homes, and as a result the city of Philadelphia is going to have to shell out a lot of money to rebuild that neighborhood."

"I was struck by the story of the South African who was on the scene and referred to the incident as being 'just like South Africa,'" noted a young college student from Stoneham. "I'm sure he was referring to police state activities to deal with problems. Perhaps the members of MOVE deserved their fate, but how about the innocent people who lived around them? Did they deserve the fate that was dished out to them? It makes you stop and think."

James E., of Woburn: "What really ticked me off was the way black leaders got on tv and criticized the police for having taken such radical action to stop the radical activities of MOVE. Would they have bothered to get on tv and criticize so loudly if, say, it had been a bunch of radical Catholics or WASPs who'd gone berserk in their neighborhood? Probably not."

"I have a question," noted Peter R., of Burlington. "Why weren't the mayor of Philadelphia, Wilson Goode, and other high-ranking officials who deemed it necessary to take such drastic actions present in the area of the confrontation? It seems to me to be pretty easy to make those kinds of decisions when you're safe and sound in your high-rise office, instead of right there, in the battle zone, where the bomb went off and the bullets were flying. If they had, they might have considered ways to stop the group without destroying the lives of so many innocent people, people who probably spent many years to acquire the meager possessions they owned. The mayor's life is still in tact, but for those innocent people, their lives may never be the same again."

A teacher from Lynnfield summed up what happened in that Philadelphia neighborhood this way: "The bottom line is the situation got way out of control, and the city and the radical group MOVE are ultimately responsible. You know what the biggest irony of all was? That a group that was so against modern technology, trying to get back to nature, with their simple clothes and hairdos, resorted to the use of modern automatic weapons to wreak havoc and to get their message across."

When Columbus discovered America, he found the Indians playing ball games.

OPEN HOUSE AT MCC

An Open House on the new MCC Transition Program for learning disabled students will be held on Wednesday, June 19 from 6-8 P.M. at the Middlesex

Community College Burlington Campus in Room 107. The program, which begins this fall, offers training and internships in entry level employment for clerical and business support positions and is particularly suited to learning disabled students who may have thought they did not have the skills to go to college.

Special courses in consumer life, personal, social and career development are included.

Students, parents and professionals are encouraged to attend the Open House or call Pat Sepanen, Program Director at 272-7342, ext. 38.

FIRST AID

A multi-media first aid course will be given by Winchester Hospital on Wednesday, May 29 and June 5 from 7 to 11 p.m. in the hospital's Kingsbury Seminar Room.

Participants will learn about bandaging, how to aid a choking person, how to carry victims, how to stop bleeding, and how to handle a variety of emergencies until professional help arrives.

There is a $12.00 fee for this course. To register, please call the education department of Winchester Hospital.

ANTIQUE VEHICLES

Codman House, an historic house museum in Lincoln, Ma. is seeking antique vehicles to participate in a Meet on July 21. All participants will be admitted free to the day's activities which will include lectures, old movies and tours of the museum.

A property of the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities, Codman House is located on 16 acres of landscaped grounds. The house, c. 1735, is preserved now as it was when the family lived there, complete with original furnishings and personal possessions.

All antique vehicles (25 years or older), including cars, trucks, motorcycles, carriages and bicycles are welcome. Individuals as well as clubs are invited

Downey honored coach

Paul Downey, the Athletic Director of Austin Preparatory School in Reading, was recently honored at this alma mater, Merrimack College. He was chosen as this year's recipient of the Thom Lawler Memorial Award, which is given to an alumnus who contributed to the sport of hockey after his college career.

The awards program noted: "Few Merrimack alums are more deserving of the J. Thom Lawler Award that recognizes continuous service to the game of hockey than 1965 graduate Paul Downey. Now into his third year as athletic director of Austin Prep School in Reading, to participate. The Meet will be publicized to the public. Both participants and visitors are encouraged to attend in period costume.

For further information, contact Codman House, P.O. Box 429, Lincoln, Ma. 01773, telephone (617) 259-8843.

DEPOT SQUARE ARTISTS

"Depot Square Artists Summer Collection", Main Gallery and Gallery Wing - all member show of watercolor, oil, acrylic, egg tempera, graphics, fibre, collage, enamels and sculpture - June 6 - August 17. Open reception, Friday, June 21, 5-8 p.m. Hours: Tues.-Sat. 10-5 and by appointment. 1837 Massachusetts Avenue (lower level), Lexington, telephone 863-1596. Wilmington artist Andrea Peters work will be shown.

VOLUNTEER NURSES

Volunteer nurses provide a valuable community service when they donate their time and skills at the American Red Cross Bloodmobiles. Hours and days are flexible depending on the Blood Services schedule. Only a few hours per month are required to maintain active status.

The Northeast Regional Blood Services of the American Red Cross will be holding a Volunteer Nurse update course for R.N.'s and L.P.N.'s who are interested in taking medical histories and assisting the staff nurses at bloodmobiles on Thursday, May 30, 7:30 - 9:30 p.m. at the Eastern Middlesex Regional headquarters at 786 Main St., Melrose. Please call Janice Wilson, Office of Volunteers, 665-1351, to make a reservation.

BLOODMOBILES

Memorial Day marked the beginning of summer fun. However, the need for blood never takes a vacation. The American Red Cross urges everyone to take an hour out of their leisure schedule to donate. Upcoming bloodmobiles in the Eastern Middlesex Region are as follows:

May 30, Thursday, St. Barbara's Church, Woburn, 1-7 p.m.; May 31, Friday, First Congregational Church, Wakefield, 1-7 p.m.; June 3, Monday, First Baptist Church, Malden, 1-7 p.m.; June 4, Tuesday, Lawrence Memorial Hospital, Medford, 10 a.m. - 4 p.m.; June 14, Friday, Senior Social Center, Medford, 2-7 p.m.

Appointments can be made by calling the Eastern Middlesex Regional office at 665-1351.

MULTIMEDIA FIRST AID

Accidents, heart attacks, and other sudden illnesses can happen any time, anywhere! You can be at home, vacationing, or at your work place when an emergency could arise involving the very life of someone close to you - a member of your family or a fellow worker.

The American Red Cross of Mass. Bay, Eastern Middlesex Region will be holding two Multimedia First Aid Courses this summer. The first will be held on Tuesdays, June 11th and 18th and the second course is scheduled for Thursdays, July 25 and August 1st. ## 'Protein Power' savings at Regional Health Center

With food costs continuing to rise and with evidence that meat has been shown to increase the risk of heart disease and cancer because of the fat and cholesterol content, the Regional Health Center in Wilmington is presenting "Protein Power: Save Money on Your Meat Bills."

This will enable area residents to learn to cook delicious, meatless dishes which provide necessary nutrients and are economical. The course will be held on Monday, June 3 from 7 to 9 p.m. presented by Janet Murray M.S., R.D.

Protein is essential in daily nutrition, according to Janet Murray, because it builds and repairs body tissues, helps form antibodies to fight infection and supplies energy.

Protein has traditionally been supplied in the American diet by sources including red meats, eggs, milk products as well as fish and poultry, most of which are high in fat and/or cholesterol.

Americans are now faced with a challenge - that of keeping food costs down and eating foods that keep the body healthy and possibly have a protective effect against chronic diseases such as cancer and heart disease.

The nutritionist at "Protein Power" will demonstrate how to prepare several tasty, low-cost, high quality protein dishes using food combinations such as beans, legumes, tofu, seeds and grains. Emphasis will be placed on combining these protein sources to equal the protein found in meat, eggs and dairy products while decreasing fat and calories. Vegetable protein sources are also high in dietary fiber which has been linked to lowering the incidence of bowel cancer.

Participants will have the opportunity to eat a meal prepared during the course. Recipes and handouts on protein will be provided. Shopping ideas will be presented for saving money while maximizing nutritional value of foods.

Pre-registration is required by calling 657-3910, ext. 567. Nutritionists at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington are also available for individual nutrition counseling for weight control problems, cancer, diabetes, anemia, eating disorders (anorexia, bulimia), high cholesterol, high blood pressure or hypoglycemia.

The Regional Health Center in Wilmington is a division of Choate-Symmes Health Services, Inc.

What price elegance?

You'd like to give a memorable dinner party for 12 people, but you're not set up at home for elegance? Consider the alternatives. If a caterer's charges are over your limit, cut your food costs by half or more by cooking the meal yourself. Help from cooperative neighbors and a few practical appliance rentals will make the job easier and give you more menu choices.

That still leaves the problem of presentation, but for $7.50 a person you can rent tables and chairs, tablecloths, napkins, china, serving pieces, glassware and all eating and serving utensils.

Too much? For a casual party, disposable dinnerware and utensils cost $1.60 a person.

Hebert promoted to VNA clinical leader

Valerie Hebert, RN, BSN, has been promoted to the position of Clinical Leader at the Visiting Nurse Association of Middlesex-East, according to an announcement by Jacquelyn S. Deegan, Executive Director.

In her new position she will be responsible for the coordination and case management of patients/families as well as supervise and hire the professional staff.

Ms. Hebert has been a community health nurse with the V.N.A. of Middlesex-East since 1982. Her professional experience includes staff positions with the Beverly Hospital/North Shore Regional Dialysis Unit, and with Lynn Hospital.

She received her bachelor of science in nursing from Salem State College.

Morgan Memorial's Fresh Air Camp

Manny's mother sent him to camp because his father was an alcoholic and didn't pay any attention to Manny. She hoped he'd find appropriate male models among the counselors.

Camp is not just a dream for children with special needs. This summer Morgan Memorial will host 1,000 children with special needs at their Fresh Air Camps. For some handicapped and poor children, the 500 acre campground in South Athol, Ma. will be their first time away from home (except for the hospital or an emergency shelter) and their first time in the country, swimming, riding horses, farming, or cooking out.

Most important, the four two-week camping periods (beginning July 1, 1985) will give children a taste of independence and a chance for growth. Because these are special camps, they are staffed by human service professionals, college students with training and experience in camping and child care, and a number of former campers.

One of the year's camp counselors first came to camp at age 12 from an adolescent mental health unit. She was very troubled, but with a lot of love and encouragement she did well and became a counselor in training her third year. The next year she was promoted to junior counselor. This year she will be a counselor, passing on her knowledge and understanding.

Boys and girls from 6 through 16 are considered on a first-come first-serve basis for the camps. For applications call Morgan Memorial's Fresh Air Camps Director, Joanne Hoops, (617) 357-9710.

"Because fees are based on a family's ability to pay," appeals Morgan Memorial President Dennis Midgorden, "the camps need to raise 75% of their funds through public support." Local residents are urged to sponsor children like Manny by contributing to the Fresh Air Camps Appeal, Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries, 95 Berkeley Street, Boston, Ma. 02116.

With local support, this year Manny may find a role model who will help him. In three years, he, too, may become a counselor in training. And beyond that, there's no limit.

Kiteflying never loses its appeal

A small farmer retired, but still headed out into his fields everyday, only this time with a kite in his hand instead of a hoe. When asked why the new-found interest in kites, especially at his age, he replied, "Most people my age walk around with their shoulders stooped and their heads down. This hobby of mine allows me to look high and proud as the kite extends my hand's reach into the sky. This pursuit renews me and makes me feel young."

What is a kite?
A kite is not quite an airplane, or even a glider. Nor is it a windmill, a sailboat, or wash flapping on a clothesline. But it is related to all of these. A kite's essentials are three: first, a wing surface shaped or

By William Pacino

Coming Attractions

contrived so that it gains life from the breeze; second, a line or tether that keeps the kite from being blown helplessly away, and in the process, sets the limits of its flying; and, third, a bridle that holds the face of the kite at an angle to the wind. Lateral and directional stability are secondary. The bridle is the critical factor. It establishes the kite's angle of incidence or the angle of attack, and for some kites, the attachment of the bridle must be adjusted from time to time as the strength of the wind varies.

Kites can be large or small and of an almost unlimited variety of shapes. Generally, however, they fall into these basic types: flat kites, bowed kites, box kites, semirigid kites, and nonrigid kites.

their wings or wag their tails. As its name implies, the compound bird kite is actually made up of two separate elements that are joined to each other. The main piece is the body, with a papermache head added at one end and tail at the other. The other pieces are the wings, which are constructed separately from one another. This kite flies in a light wind, but you have to pay a lot of attention in order to keep it airborne. The result as you scan skyward, can be startling: a kite that looks like a bird.

Gayla Industries, P.O. Box 10800, Houston, Texas 77018. World's largest maker of kites.

I own four kites. The first one is a snake kite that was purchased in San Francisco for $25. After realizing the fun in flying this kite at the beach, I ordered a Chinese compound bird kite from the Smithsonian Institute catalog for $20. And last Christmas, I picked up, at a Church fair, an airplane kite kit and a winged box kite kit for $5 each.

Snake kite

This kite utilizes a relatively small, arch-top shape supporting a wide, tapering tail that flows from 25 to 40 feet beyond the kite. The tail must be made of a material light enough for the wind to support. Tough Mylar film works very well. The face of the kite is formed with very thin and light wooden dowels. This kite flies well in a light wind, darting around in the sky. In a steady wind, like that encountered at a beach, this kite goes up and stays up, even if you walk the beach from one end to the other.

Compound Bird kite

Kites fly. So do birds, and they did it first. Partly in admiration, partly in envy, kite fliers of many lands have developed kites that look like birds and sometimes even fly like them. The Chinese construct a number of birdlike kites, some of which flutter

Woodchips

By ANTHONY MANCONI

I hate long political speeches and I day dream through most monotonous sermons, giving credence to the adage that "after a half hour's sermon, very few more souls can be saved." While on vacation last summer I attended Mass in a country church in New Hampshire. The homily was very, very brief because, explained the pastor, his new puppy chewed up his notes the previous night, in his study. I waited until after the services and asked Father Thomas if there are any more puppies for sale in that litter. I would like to purchase two and it would be a pleasure for me to present them to two long winded Men of the Cloth. Friends of mine, a lady who works with me told me that her sister is married to a clergyman. She has an unique way to keep him from being carried away with his own importance as an orator. Periodically she gives the usher an envelope to give to her husband just before he begins to speak. The envelope contains a one word message, "Kiss!" It is mutually understood to mean, "Keep it short stupid!" I met Sean Lombard last week, who is a student at St. John's Prep in Danvers. I told the handsome young man that years ago my father and I built a house for a MDC policeman named Chris Lombard and did he know him. "Yes," he said, "he was my grandfather." He went on to tell me that he lives in that house with his parents and grandmother, Betty. What a wonderful feeling it is to know that my father and I "built" a house so that the Lombards could put a "home" in it.

Charlie White is a retired master electrician whose "current" address is in Burlington. He owns a "Wire Haired Terrier" and he watches his weight by eating a "light lunch" everyday.

I work with scientists but I am a carpenter, hence the title, "Woodchips." These professionals sometimes boast like the chemist who said he has the "solution" for the world's ills. The engineers say that they relieve "stress and strain," the biologists claim they know which came first, "the chicken or the egg." The dentists say "we must all pull together" and the IRS "we know the truth - figures don't lie but some taxpayers do!"

I was invited to a nudist wedding last week but I couldn't go. I didn't have a thing to wear.

A camel is a horse put together by a committee. I didn't graduate in the "top-half" of my class but I was one of those who helped make the "top" half possible. "Holly" is a beautiful large, enormous Labrador Retriever, owned by Tom and Carrie Mooney of Winchester. So far, Holly has pulled the garage ten feet from its footing, bent a tree she was tied to so that it forms a graceful archway and she is now working on moving the front porch she's tied to onto the driveway.

March 11-17 was Albert Einstein Week in Massachusetts. My Aunt Maria from Wilmington called me to tell me that only 12 people in the world understood him but I don't know anyone who understands you so that makes you greater than Einstein!

Three beautiful young ladies all team members of the Haydnettes Precision Team, recently brought the bronze medal home, won in competition in Cleveland, Ohio in figure skating. They are Jennifer Armstrong of Wilmington, Leanne Babine of Tewksbury and Gretchen Ede of North Reading. There would be fewer divorces for trivial reasons if some people didn't get married for trivial reasons. My father was born in Italy and my mother in Ireland. In their over fifty years of marriage they never had any use for counseling, therapy or guidance. Whatever the disagreement, argument or dispute it was dealt with and ended swiftly and completely when my mother would swear at my father in Gaelic and my father would return broadside in Italian, with neither one understanding each other.

When I was born they were undecided on a name. My father took one look at me and said, "let's call it 'quits!'"

My cousin Dennis Tully, a locksmith, has a beautiful tenor voice. However sometimes he has trouble staying on "key." On one of those occasions at a party his rendition of Galway Bay brought tears to the eyes of a lady sitting in the first row but Dennis' "Danny Boy" really did it. The poor soul broke out in uncontrollable crying. We found out later she was Mrs. Ann O'Donnell, Dennis' singing teacher.

The man who brags that he never made a mistake invariably has a wife who did! Beauty in a lady is more to me than a pretty face, stately form and graceful figure. To all those attributes there must be also added, charisma, personality, and a wonderful sense of humor. The following ladies are winners.

Area artists open show at Winchester Gallery

Artist Joyce Agri Colvario, Odo Wang and Carlyjane Watson will burst into summer with an array of color and graphic arts that are certain to be of interest to the varied tastes. The three artists have the honor of being the first small group show in the new Winchester Art Association Gallery. The opening reception is Sunday, June 2 from 3-5 p.m. and the public is welcome. The show will run through June 20.

Joyce Agri Colvario, a resident of Stoneham, formerly of Reading, is a working graphic artist and illustrator, who for the last few years has devoted her spare time to painting with an emphasis on watercolors. She will be exhibiting her recent landscapes and florals in this exhibit. Her watercolors are influenced by her sense of design and the graphic techniques she uses in her daily work. The overall sense is one of harmony and unity found in nature.

Joyce attended the school of the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston. She studied with Carolyn Latanision and has taken workshops with Priscilla Patrone and Martin Ahearn. She has exhibited locally at the Reading, Woburn, Cambridge and Winchester Art Associations. Her work as well as that of the other two artists can be seen on a regular basis at the Winchester Art Association members' shows. Joyce is a member of the board of the Winchester Art Association.

Odo Wang, a resident of Winchester, has studied etching and graphics under J. Coughlin and oil painting under J. Guillo and Gongoro. He has been commissioned for realistic portraiture since age ten, and his work has been exhibited and collected locally and throughout the United States.

Odo admires the work of Chaim Soutine and Vincent Van Gogh. The abstract silk screens he will be exhibiting in this show displays a similar use of vibrant color.

In his portraiture work he favors the use of pencil, oil and sumi brush techniques. He is constantly searching for new art forms, yet never drifts totally away from realism.

Carlyjane Watson, a resident of Woburn, is a free lance photographer devoted to the pursuit of fine photography. The series of photographs she will be exhibiting in this show come from the series "American Illuminations." The series was shot last summer on an extensive tour of America. The images exhibit not only richness of light, but unique views of the historic sites and gardens she photographed on her trip.

Carlyjane completed the course of study in photography at the Corcoran School of Art, Washington D.C. and received her degree in Fine Art photography from NVCC Magna Cum Laude. She works as the photography advisor at Winchester High School and specializes in environmental portraiture and special occasion photography with a touch of love.

Before moving to Massachusetts she was a juried member of the Grace Gallery of Art, Reston, Virginia and a member of the Fairfax City Council of Art. Her work has been shown in numerous national juried shows including shows juried by Virginia Mecklenburg Curator 20th Century Painting, the National Museum of American Art, Chris Middendorf and Jack Beal. Her work is in a variety of collections in Washington, D.C., Virginia and New York. She was recently the recipient of a Massachusetts Arts Council grant.

Applications being accepted at Essex Aggie

Applications are now being accepted for September 1985 admission to the two-year college division at the Essex Agricultural and Technical Institute in Danvers. Programs of study include classroom, laboratory and on-the-job training, leading to the associate degree in applied science.

Major courses of study include: environmental technology program preparing students for careers in park management, forestry, floral design, greenhouse management, landscape architecture, turf management and golf course operation; animal science courses include veterinary assistant, horse management, grooming and kennel management and small animal care; culinary arts and restaurant management provides training for quality control, chefs, hotel, motel and restaurant management; food science and nutrition trains individuals in food processing and preservation, regulatory inspection and control, food technology, marketing and distribution and dietary technology; the fashion retailing program prepares students for positions in specialty sales, fashion illustration and retail merchandising.

High school graduates interested in obtaining further information should call or write the Director of Admissions, Essex Agricultural and Technical Institute, Hathorne, Mass. 01937.

Woodchips from S-9

as far as Woodchip's is concerned: Mary Jane Seaberg and Michele both of Stoneham, Suzie Arlen and Maureen McGurn of Tewksbury, Andrea Cefali and Marian Marrone of Winchester, Nicole Higden of Burlington, Connie Johnson of Wakefield, Marilyn Stratton of North Reading, Cecel Vigilante of Lynnfield, Ruth Haggerty and Nancy Murphy of Woburn and many more who you will see mentioned in future Woodchips.

I welcome Angela Cefali to Woodchips. Angela is from Winchester and works in a local bank in customer service. I was in a Woburn Bank last week when a man shouted, "did anyone drop a roll of bills with a rubber band around it?" Three people exclaimed, "yes I did!" "Good," responded the good samaritan, "I found your rubber band!"

This has been my lucky day and here are some of the wonderful people who I met for the first time who made it that way: Spike Boyle, insurance from Woburn. I wonder if I can get a policy for my pet frog in case it "croaks." Leonard Flesher, furniture, from Woburn, where I bought a coffee table to "perk me up". Lil Queen and Kathy Wagstaff, Woburn Supply, where I buy many things because I'm a do it yourself person. The crew of the USS Ken Binding, wife, Elaine, Katie, Cindy, Amy, Scott Derek and the capt., Kenny Binding.

Dairy Foods
Calcium Conveniently

To round out the simplest meals reach for a carton of milk or a container of yogurt. You will be supplying your body with at least one-third of the RDA of 800 mg of calcium for the average adult.

Open a package of cheese for a calcium boost anytime of day or as the mainstay of lunch or dinner. The wide variety of domestic cheeses available should provide satisfaction for every palate.

For an easy, nutritious and economical addition to creamed soups, casseroles and baked goods, open a box of nonfat dry milk and toss in a few tablespoons. Nothing could be quicker for a calcium boost.

Everyone loves ice cream. And it's the quickest, most convenient dessert. Just open the freezer and spoon out a bowlful. If calories are a concern, use ice milk or frozen yogurt.

PHONE WORK. 1 to 2 hours per evening for an employment agency. ## FACTS

Octane—a measure of how smoothly a gasoline burns in an engine—was originally measured on a scale of 0 to 100, with 100-octane gasoline having the same antiknock properties as a fuel comprised of 100 percent of a compound called isooctane.

The highest octane unleaded gasoline available from any major oil company—Sunoco Ultra gasoline, with an octane rating of 93.5—is being introduced at the company's service stations around the country.
